A sea lion pup sat on the beach and watched the waves come in.
He was looking for his mother.
She had been gone for two days.

Little Pup was all by himself,
and he was hungry.

All along the beach, mother sea lions were coming back to their pups.

The mothers had been out to sea and eaten lots of fish.

The pups were too little to catch fish. They still drank milk from their mothers.

Little Pup saw a big sea lion coming out of the water.

The big sea lion moved slowly up the beach on its flippers. It looked like his mother!
