Maria and her grandma
walked into the school.

“Look,” said Grandma.

“Today, there are climbing frames.
Our school didn’t have those.
We played ball games.”

“We play those today as well,”
said Maria.

They walked into Room 23.
“This is the same room
I was in,” said Grandma.
“It doesn’t look the same now.
We had chalkboards.
Today, you have whiteboards.”

Grandma looked around.
The kids’ work was on the walls.
There was a computer in the corner.

“Do you like our room?”
asked Maria.

“Yes,” said Grandma.

“When I went to school,
we also had our work on the walls.
But we didn’t have a computer.”
