TALK ABOUT TEXTS

Kancil and the Tiger

Retold by Melaina Faranda

Illustrated by Joseph Ma

Kancil and the Tiger

A Folktale from Southeast Asia

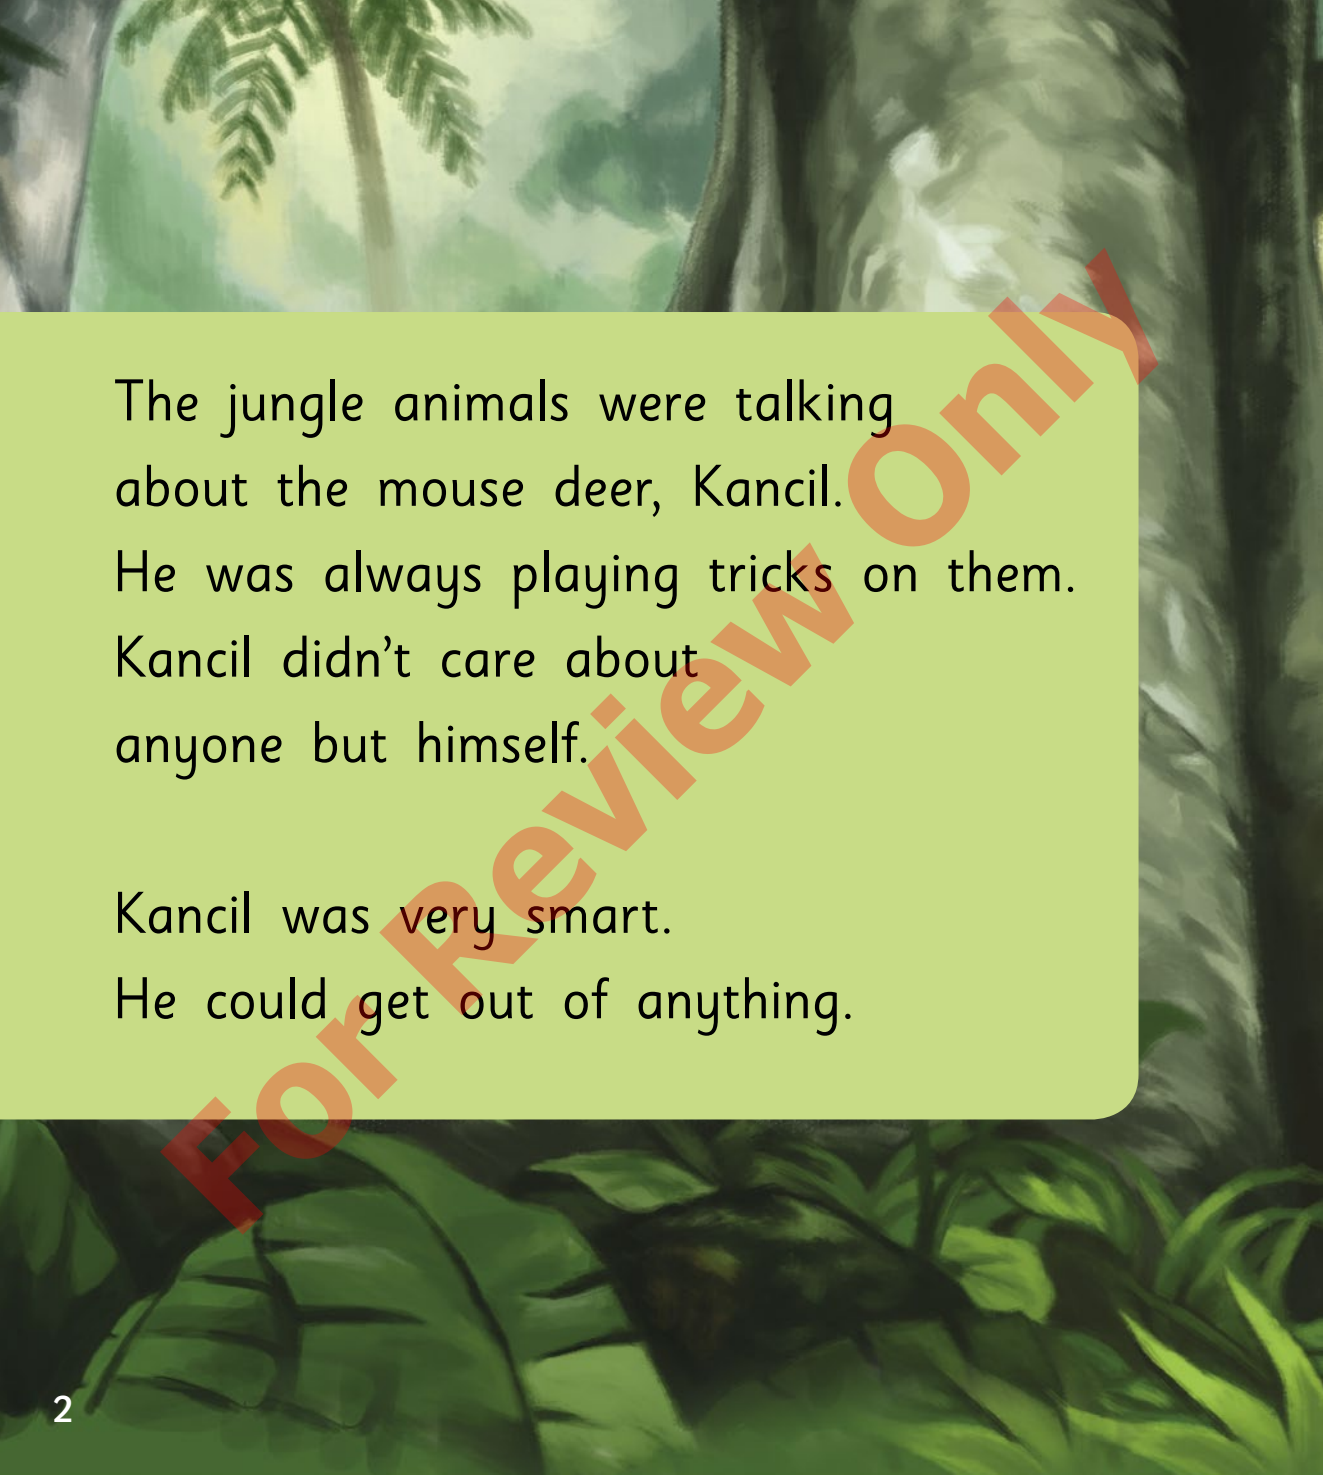

For Review Only

Retold by Melaina Faranda

Illustrated by Joseph Ma

macmillan education

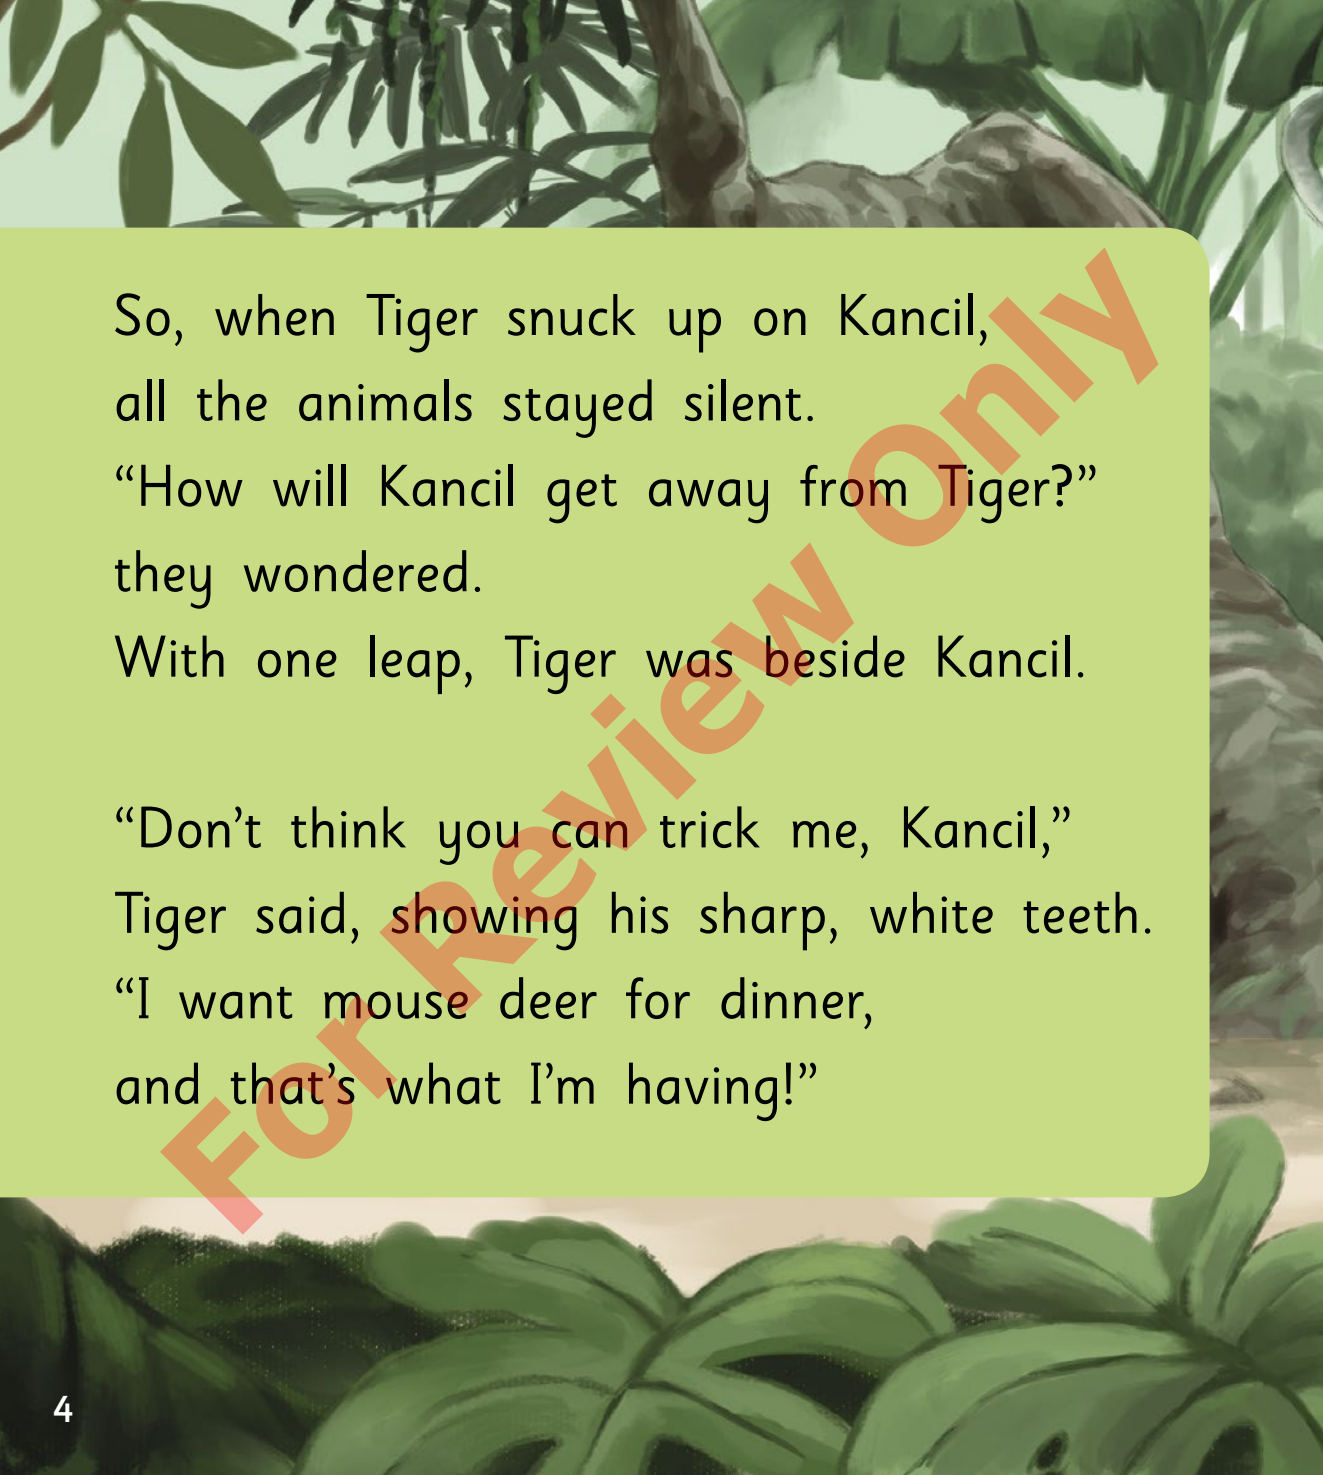

The jungle animals were talking about the mouse deer, Kancil. He was always playing tricks on them. Kancil didn't care about anyone but himself.

Kancil was very smart. He could get out of anything.

For Review Only

For Review Only

So, when Tiger snuck up on Kancil, all the animals stayed silent.
"How will Kancil get away from Tiger?"
they wondered.
With one leap, Tiger was beside Kancil.

"Don't think you can trick me, Kancil,"
Tiger said, showing his sharp, white teeth.
"I want mouse deer for dinner, and that's what I'm having!"

For Review Only

For Review Only