
TALK ABOUT TEXTS
Storm Chaser
Written by George Ivanoff
Illustrated by James Hart

Storm Chaser

Written by George Ivanoff

Illustrated by James Hart

For Review Only

macmillan education

Contents

Chapter 1: Warning! 3

Chapter 2: Incoming! 12

Chapter 3: Landing 20

For Review Only

Chapter 1

Warning!

The thunderstorm raged around Suzie and her stepbrother Jin. The children were watching from the observation dome at the top of their house.

Suzie and Jin's parents were weather scientists. They lived in a special house where they could study the weather. But today they were away, studying a different storm.

For Review Only

"What's that?" Jin said suddenly.

He pointed at the computer screen. "Something is being sent through!"

TORNADO REPORT. FOR URGENT ATTENTION OF PROFESSORS LIM: TORNADO COMING.

For Review Only

"It's for Mum and Dad," said Suzie. "We need to get this report to them!"

"But how?" Jin said, puzzled.

"Easy!" They spun around as their older brother, Mike, came up the stairs.

"We'll take the weather machine," he said.

For Review Only

"But it's experimental," Suzie said.

"It hasn't been tested," agreed Jin.

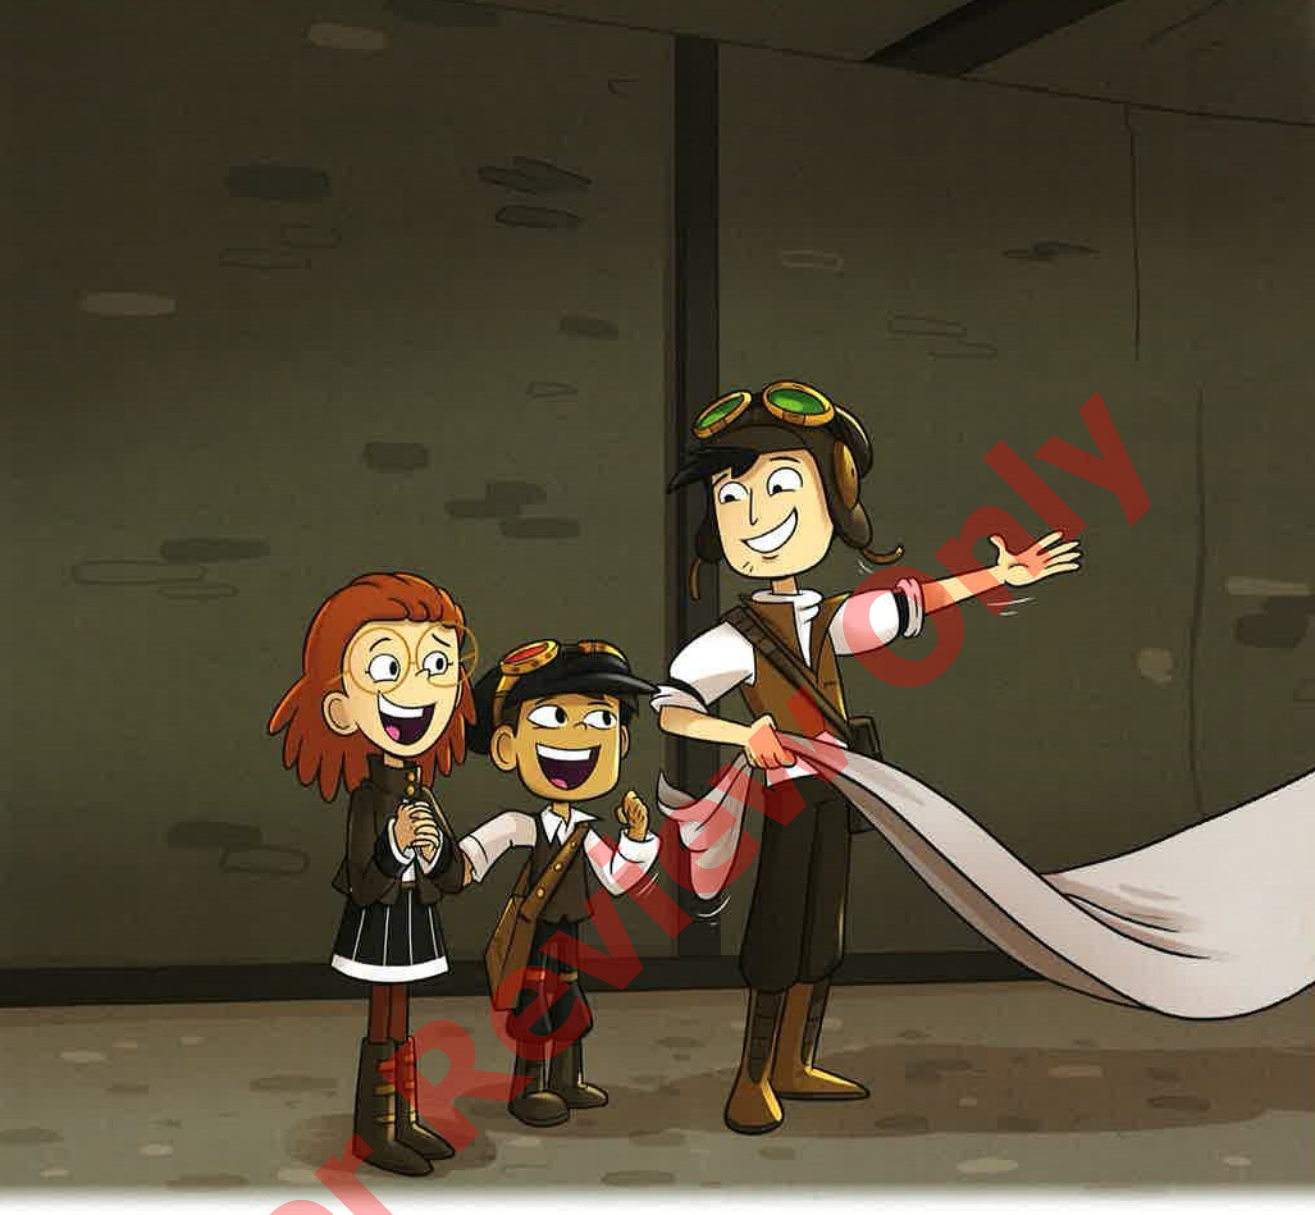

"It's the perfect chance to try it out," replied Mike. "Don't worry. I helped Mum design and build it. It's ready!"

So Jin put the report on a USB stick and they quickly ran to the garage.

For Review Only

For Review Only

For Review Only

"It's incredible!" said Suzie and Jin together. It was the first time they'd seen the machine. It looked like a spaceship made of wood, metal and glass. It was filled with weird and exciting-looking scientific equipment.