Chapter 1

Leena's New Robo-Leg

Leena was heading to the shop with her mum to pick up her new robot leg. The famous Robo-Leg 3000 was direct from Earth, more than 87 million kilometres away.

Leena had been waiting a long time for this day and she was very excited. "Mum, please could we catch a taxi?" she asked. "The batteries in my old Robo-Leg Originals are running out of power, and I don't want to be late!"

Mum agreed, and they climbed into a waiting car at the taxi rank.

"Go to ROBO-NEW Shop," Mum commanded the taxi. The driverless vehicle moved away.

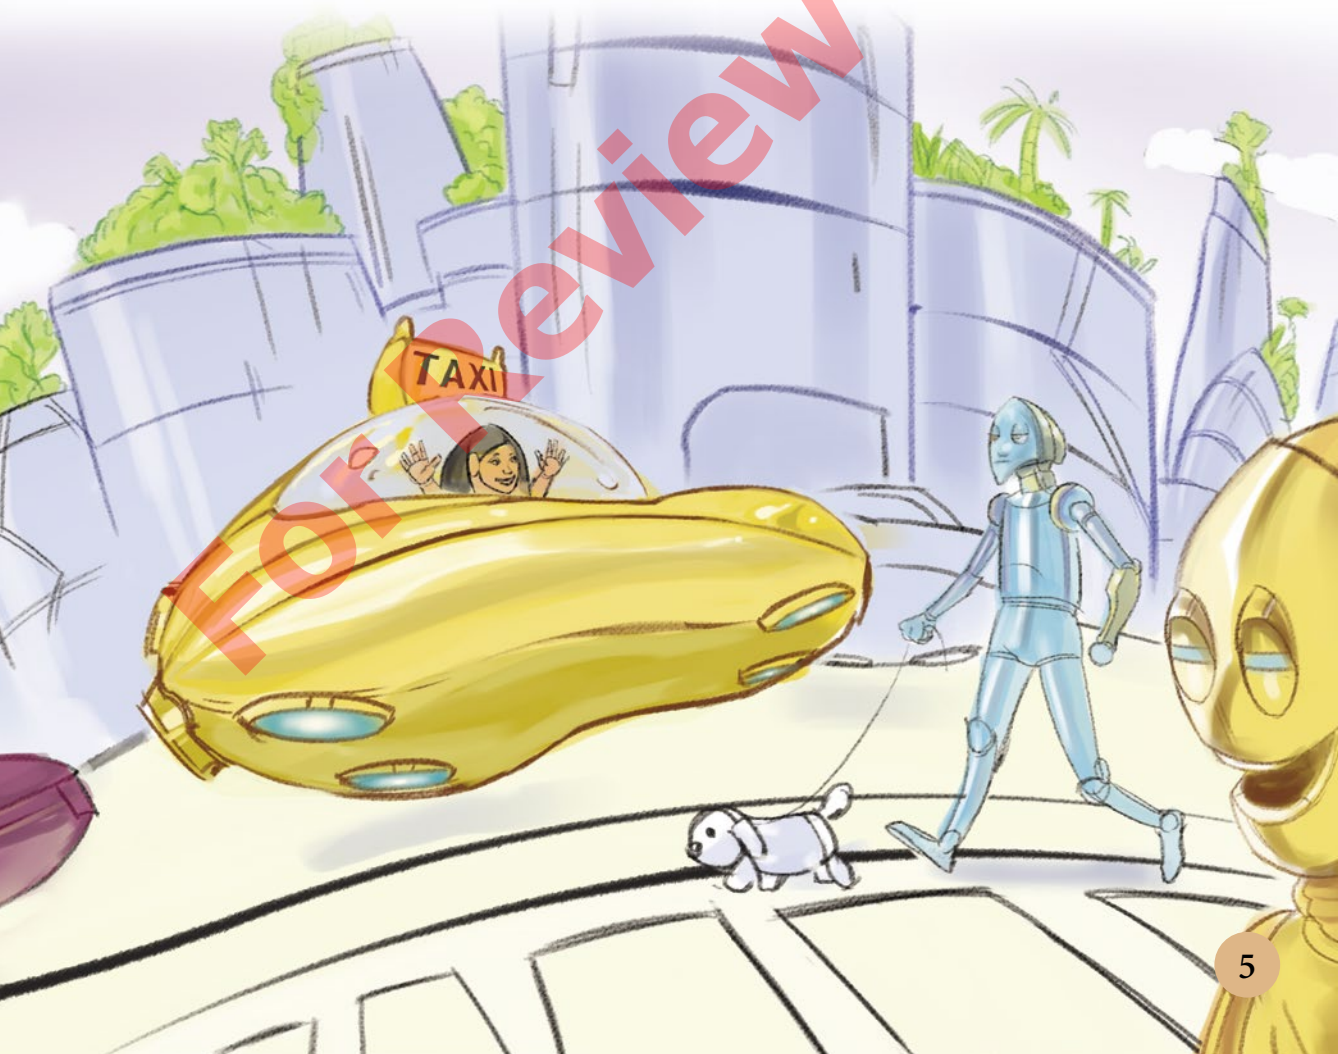

All the robots living in Mars City knew that ROBO-NEW was the best shop to go to for robot parts.

As they were driving, Leena gazed out of the window at all the different robots walking along. Like her, most walked on two legs and looked a lot like humans. There were even little robots, called baby bots.

It was the year 2750. Mars City was the first of three robot colonies on Mars. Just humanoid robots lived here for now, but someday, actual humans would come.
