The Glass Slippers

Written by Sharon Callen

Illustrated by Claire Chrystall

Once upon a time, there was a kind and beautiful girl named Cinder. She had two stepsisters who were not kind or beautiful.

For teachers' inspection ONLY

Cinder's stepsisters liked to dress up in grand clothes and go to grand parties. Cinder always had to stay home and clean the house.

Sometimes, she wished she could dress in grand clothes and go to grand parties. But she never complained.

For teacher's inspection ONLY

One day, an invitation came from Prince Charming. The stepsisters were invited to a party at the palace!

On the day of the party, the stepsisters dressed in their grandest clothes and left Cinder to clean the house while they were gone.

"Enjoy the cleaning," they laughed. "Be sure to do a grand job!"

For teachers' inspection ONLY

Just after they left for the party, there was a flash of light. Cinder's fairy godmother landed on the floor of the kitchen.

"Oh! Something went wrong," Fairy Godmother said, as she stood up. "What a mess I've made!" Then, with a swish of her wand, the house was clean.

For teachers' inspection ONLY