The Lonely Penguin's Blog

Written by Alan Trussell-Cullen
Illustrated by Sophie Kittredge

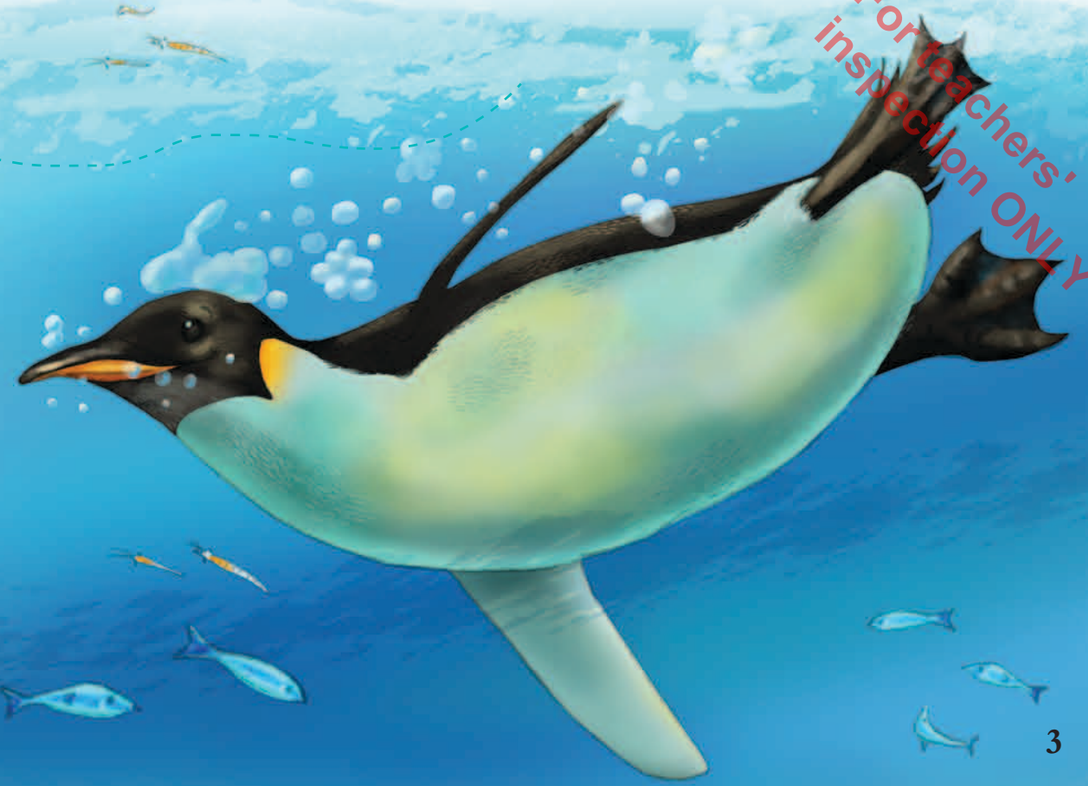

For teachers' inspection ONLY

Penguin Blog

June 15: Hello, World!

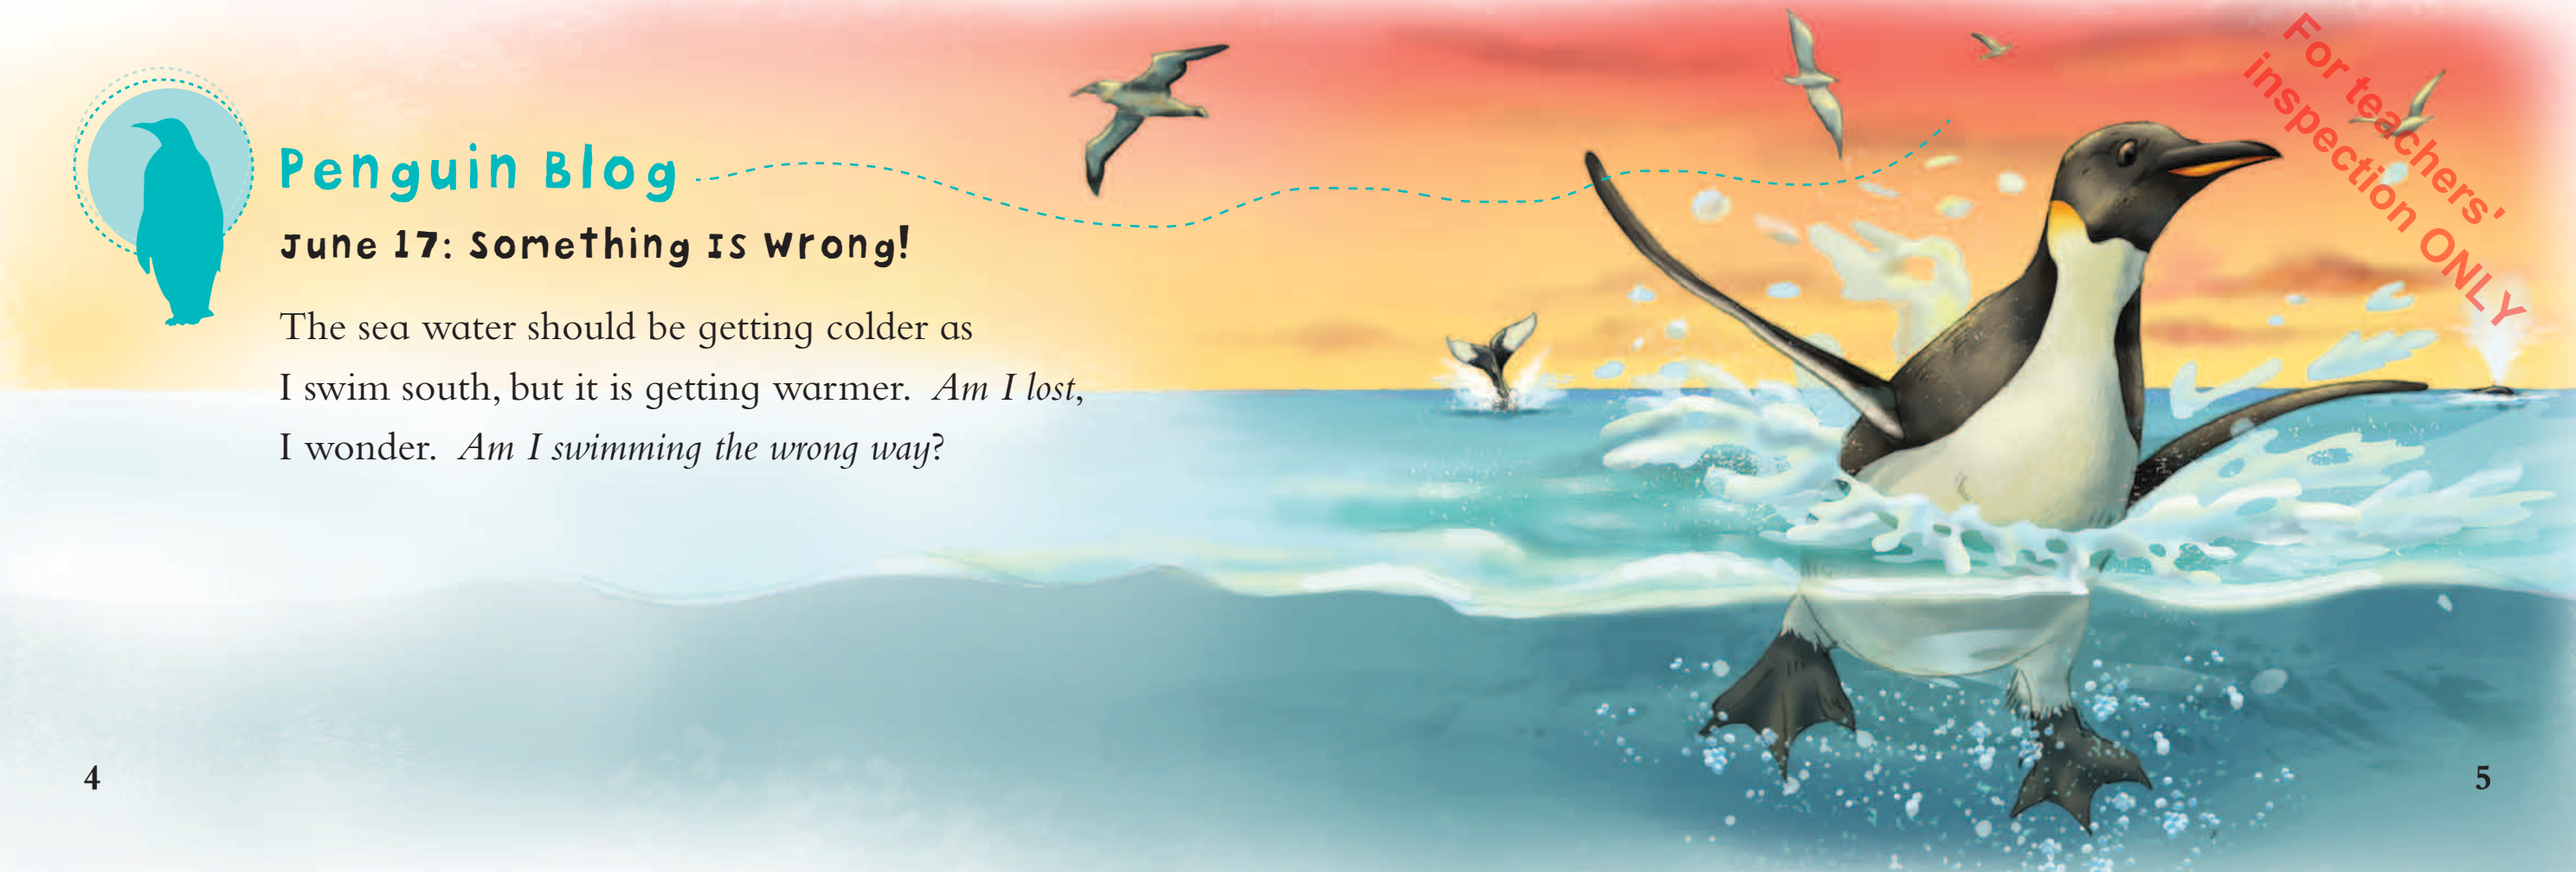

Welcome to my blog. This is me, Palaki, and I'm a three-year-old emperor penguin. I have been on a long swim north to see the world. Now, I'm finally heading south to my home in the freezing cold waters off Antarctica.

Penguin Blog

June 17: Something is wrong!

The sea water should be getting colder as I swim south, but it is getting warmer. Am I lost, I wonder. Am I swimming the wrong way?

For teachers' inspection ONLY

For teachers' inspection ONLY

Penguin Blog

June 18: Any Icebergs?

I keep looking for icebergs! I'm looking for leopard seals, too. They love to eat penguins. I've got to watch out for orcas, too!

For teachers' inspection ONLY

Penguin Blog

June 20: I'm in Big Trouble!

I was swimming along when I saw something white ahead. I thought it was ice and I was home at last. I swam straight for it, but look where I ended up!

