Way Back When

Written by Helen Bethune
Illustrated by Shelley Dieterichs

Ethan burst into the kitchen, where his grandfather was sitting with his laptop.

"Hey, Grandpa, can I interview you for my school project? I have to find out what sort of things you did when you were my age."

For Review Only

For Review Only

Grandpa laughed. "Ethan, you would not believe how different things were way back when. Why, when I was your age, I—"

Ethan interrupted. "I'm sorry, Grandpa, but I've already figured out a list of questions. Can we stick to those?" Ethan had his pencil and notebook ready.

For Review Only

For Review Only

"Sure, Ethan. Let's see what you've got!" said Grandpa.

"First, what games did you play at my age?" asked Ethan.

"Let's see. We played baseball and basketball. I was in Little League," replied Grandpa.

"I'm in Little League, too! What else?"

For Review Only

For Review Only