

Written by Alan Trussell-Cullen
Illustrated by Jane Wallace-Mitchell

Contents

Chapter One
Sam the Incredible Inventor 3

Chapter Two
Sam Makes a Splash 11

Chapter Three
Sam Gets to Work 19

Chapter Four
Luigi's Grand Opening 27

For Review Only

Chapter One

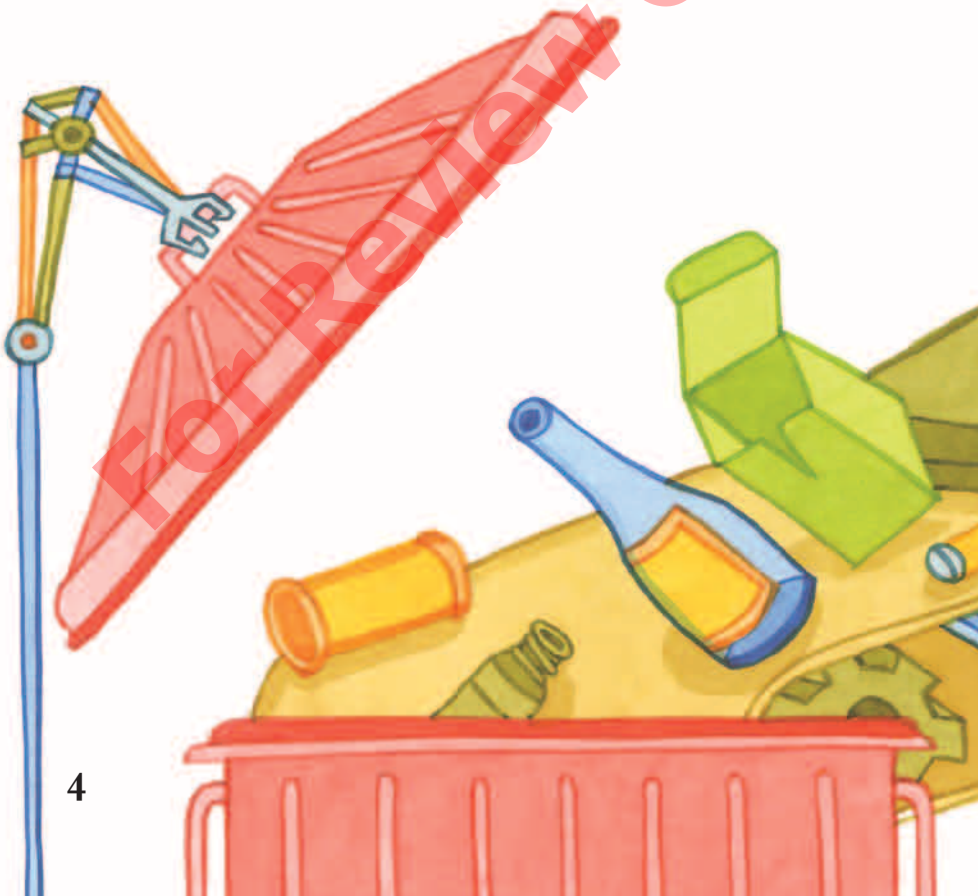

SAM

the Incredible Inventor

Sam loves inventing things and, unlike most kids, she likes doing chores. Well, that's because she invents machines to do the chores for her!

For Review Only

One of Sam's newest inventions is the Trash Taking Out Machine. She has to take out the trash once a week. That's a chore she really doesn't like, so she decided to invent a machine to do it for her. It looks like this.

For Review Only

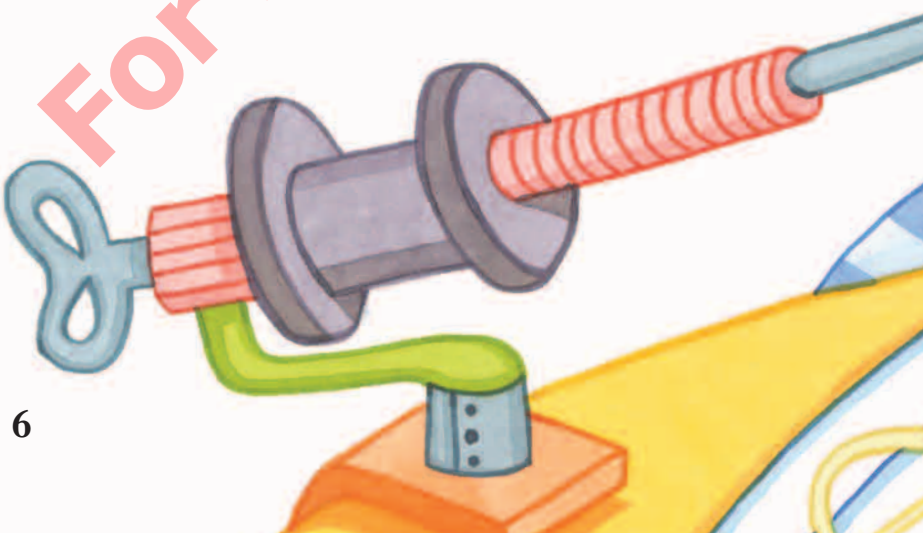

For Review Only

Sam has invented a lot of other things, too. She used to have trouble eating spaghetti—but not anymore. She invented a Super Spaghetti Twirling Machine to help her eat it. All she has to do is hit a switch and open her mouth.

Sam also hates dusting, so she invented a Do It All Dusting Machine. A special ceiling fan swirls long feathers around the room. It makes people sneeze, but it does get rid of dust.

For Review Only

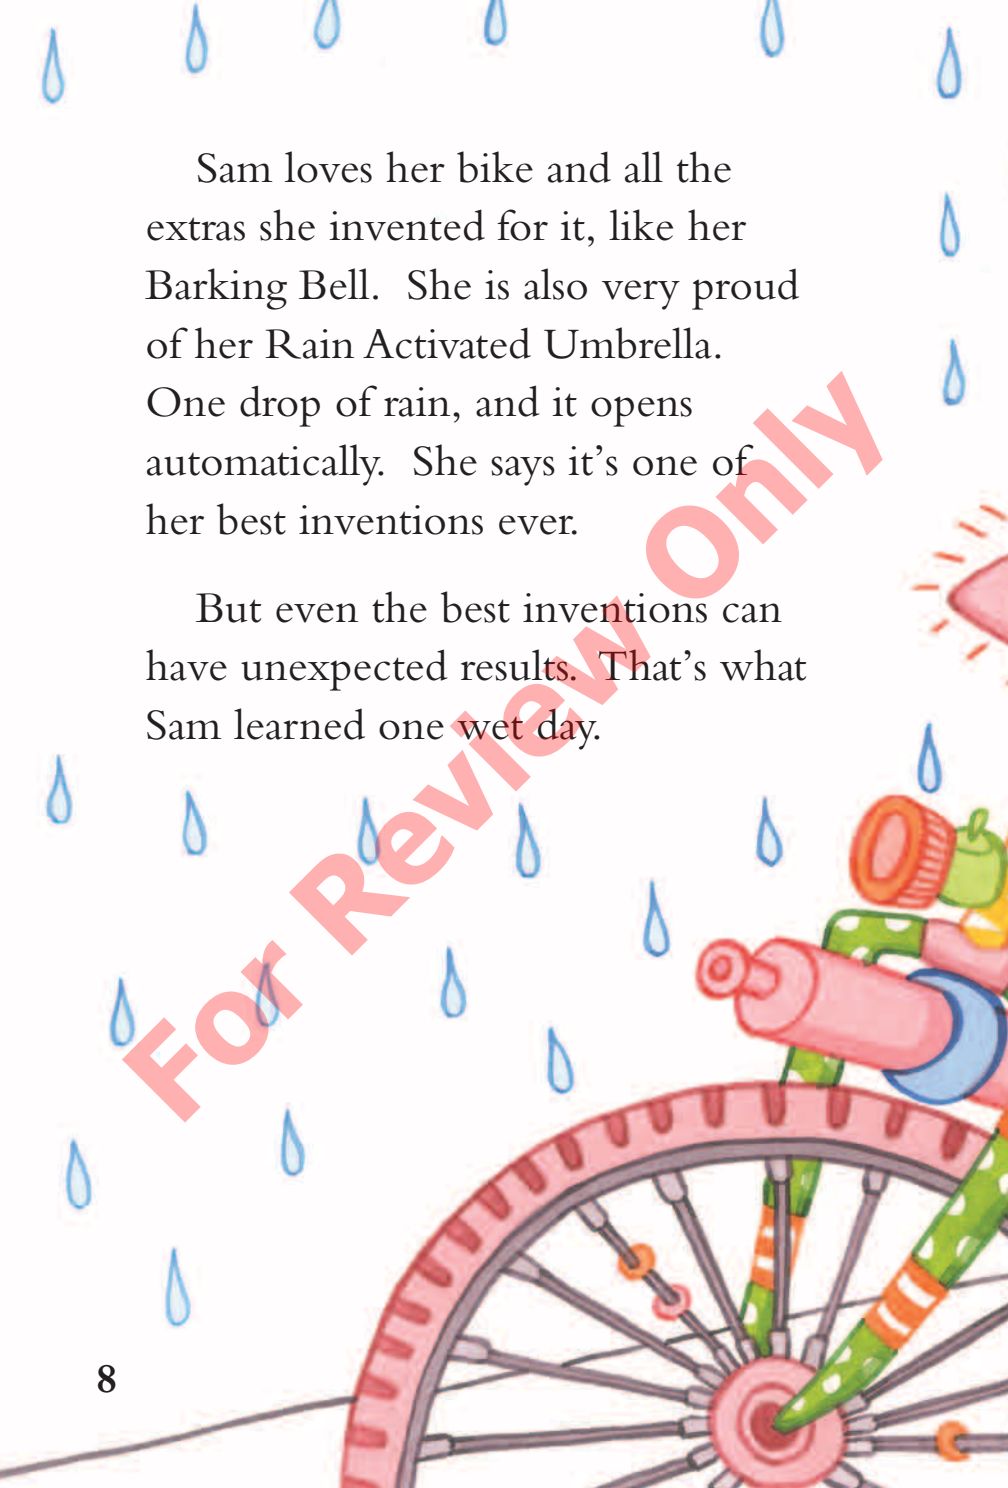

For Review Only

Sam loves her bike and all the extras she invented for it, like her Barking Bell. She is also very proud of her Rain Activated Umbrella. One drop of rain, and it opens automatically. She says it's one of her best inventions ever.

But even the best inventions can have unexpected results. That's what Sam learned one wet day.

For Review Only

For Review Only