The Crowded Hut

retold by Rebecca Grudzina • illustrated by Alexandra Colombo

Benchmark EDUCATION

For Review Only

For Review Only

A man named Ben lived in a hut with his family.
He had many children.
And his hut was very small.

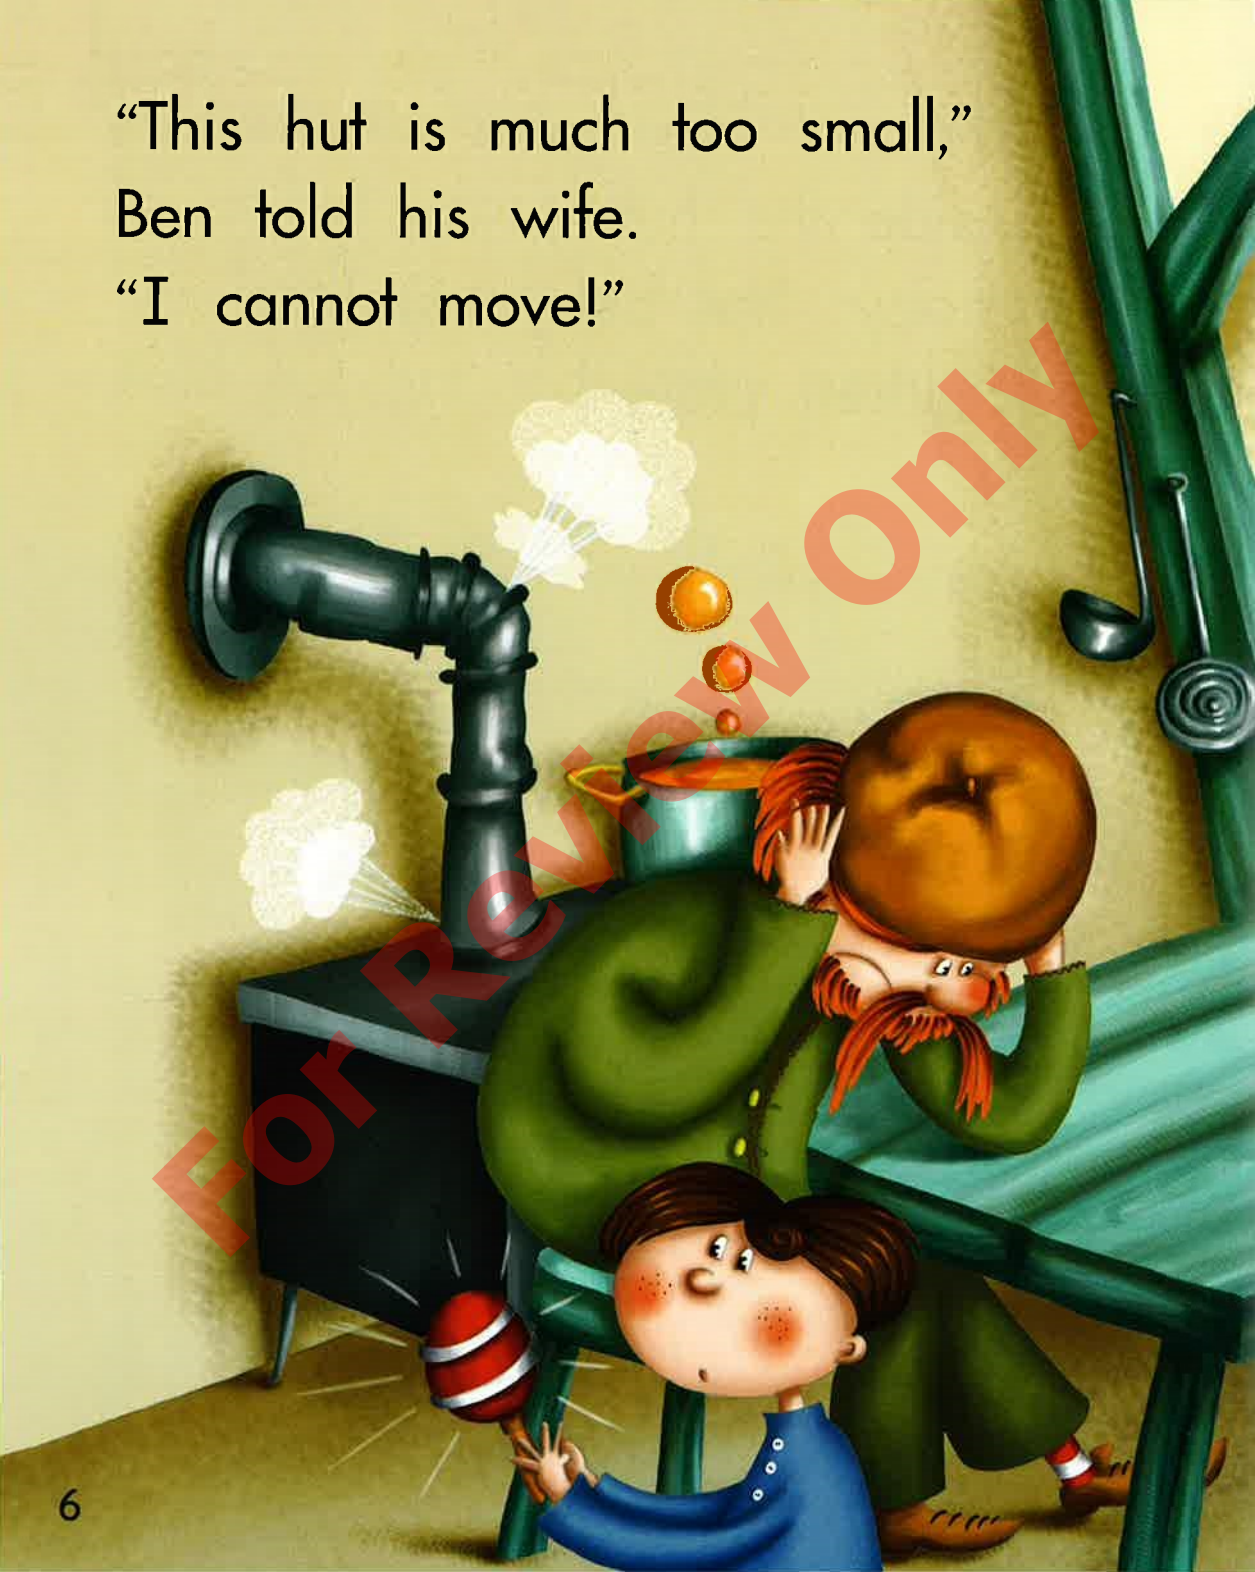

Preview Only

Ben did not like noise.
But inside the hut it was very noisy. The baby cried.
The children played.

For Review Only

"This hut is much too small,"
Ben told his wife.
"I cannot move!"

For Review Only

"And it is much too noisy here," Ben said. "I do not like the noise!"

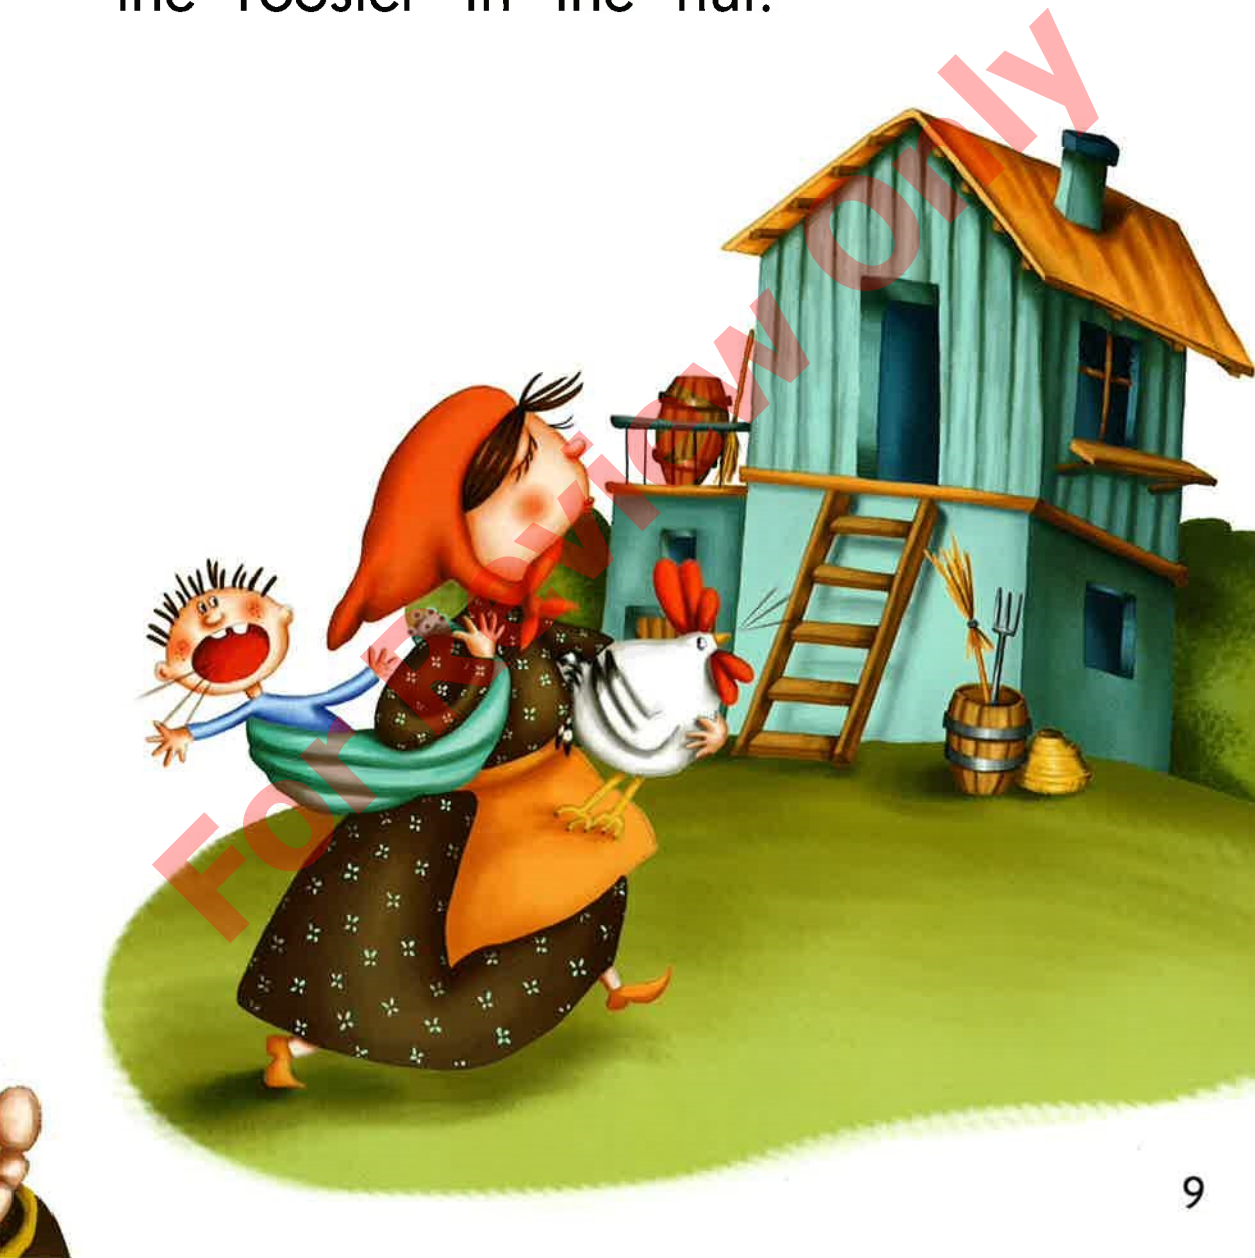

For Review Only

Ben's wife was a very smart woman. She knew how to help her husband.

For Review Only

One day she went to the market and got a rooster. She put the rooster in the hut.

For Review Only

What happened in this fable?

Make Predictions

What will happen now that the animals are not in the hut?