No Rules Day

Written by Diana Neild
Illustrated by Jacqueline East

"Mum," said Maggie.
"Can Susie come to play on Saturday?"

"Wait, hold on," said Mum.
"People do chores here on Saturday.
That is our rule."

"Rules hold people up," said Maggie.
"Rules annoy people."

For Review Only

For Review Only

"What if people did not have rules?" said Mum.
"What if people did not clean up?"

"It could be good!" said Maggie.

"We will have a No Rules Day on Saturday," said Mum.
"Susie can hold off from coming until Sunday."

For Review Only

For Review Only

On Saturday, Maggie started making her bed.
"Wait, hold on," she said.
"It is No Rules Day."

Maggie threw the blankets on the floor.

For Review Only

For Review Only