Oily Feet

Written by Grace Cameron
Illustrated by Richard Hoit

Molly and her family lived near the beach.
One day, a ship crashed on the black rocks
and black oil spilled out.
It got on the animals that lived
in and near the sea.

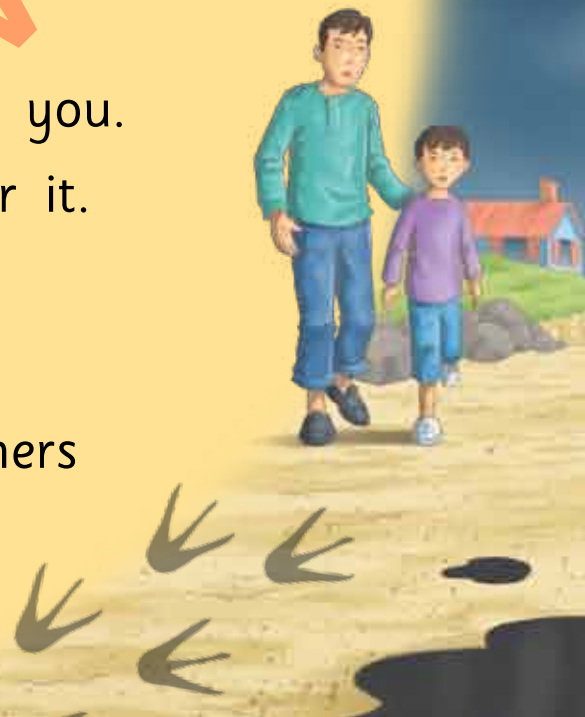

For Review Only

For Review Only

Some people who lived nearby
went to help clean up.
It was the biggest mess Molly had seen in her life.
She wanted to help, too,
but the black oil was bad for you.
So, Molly did not go too near it.

"Look!" said Molly.
"That penguin has black feathers and black marks on his feet."

For Review Only

For Review Only

Back home, Molly was sad.
She wanted to help the penguin
she had named Oily Feet.
Molly watched a program about animals
that lived on and near the oily beach.
Then, she smiled.
She had an idea.

For Review Only

For Review Only