Magnet Boy

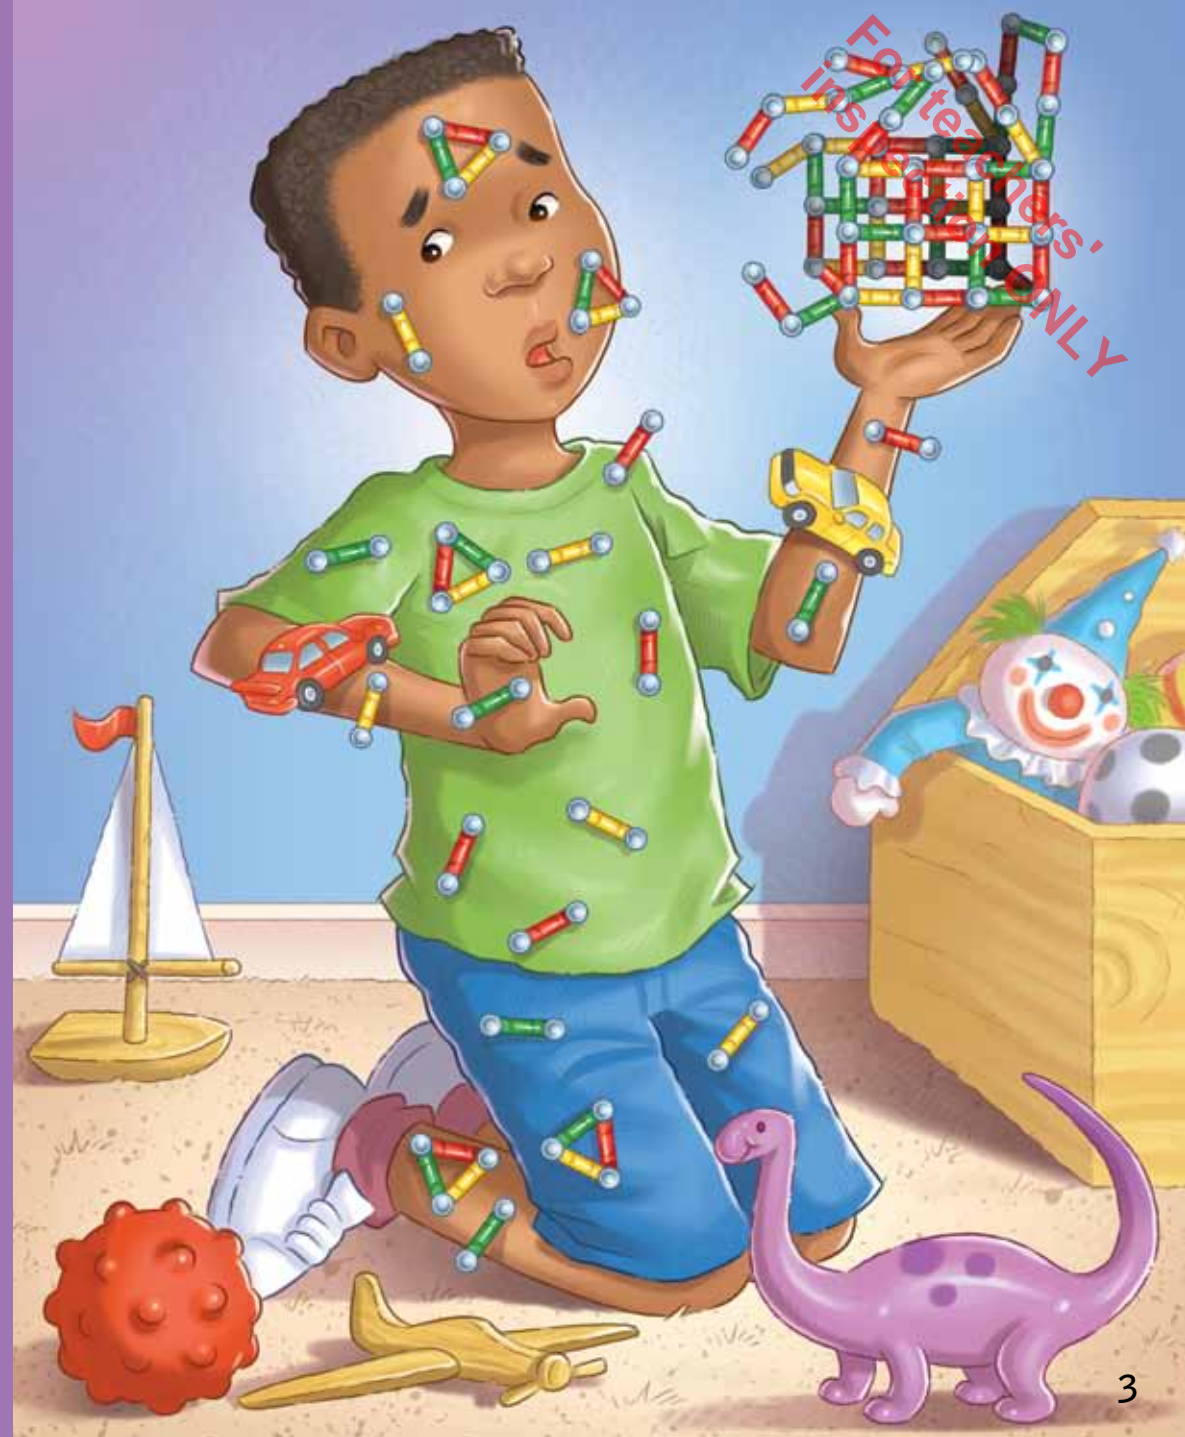

Written by Grace Cameron
Illustrated by Richard Hoit

Joshua is a strange boy.
Metal things always stick to him.
His mum calls him Magnet Boy.

Joshua lives in a house
on Park Street.
His house has metal things in it.
Joshua has some metal toys, too.

"Oh, no!" says Joshua.

A metal toy house
and metal toy cars stick to him.

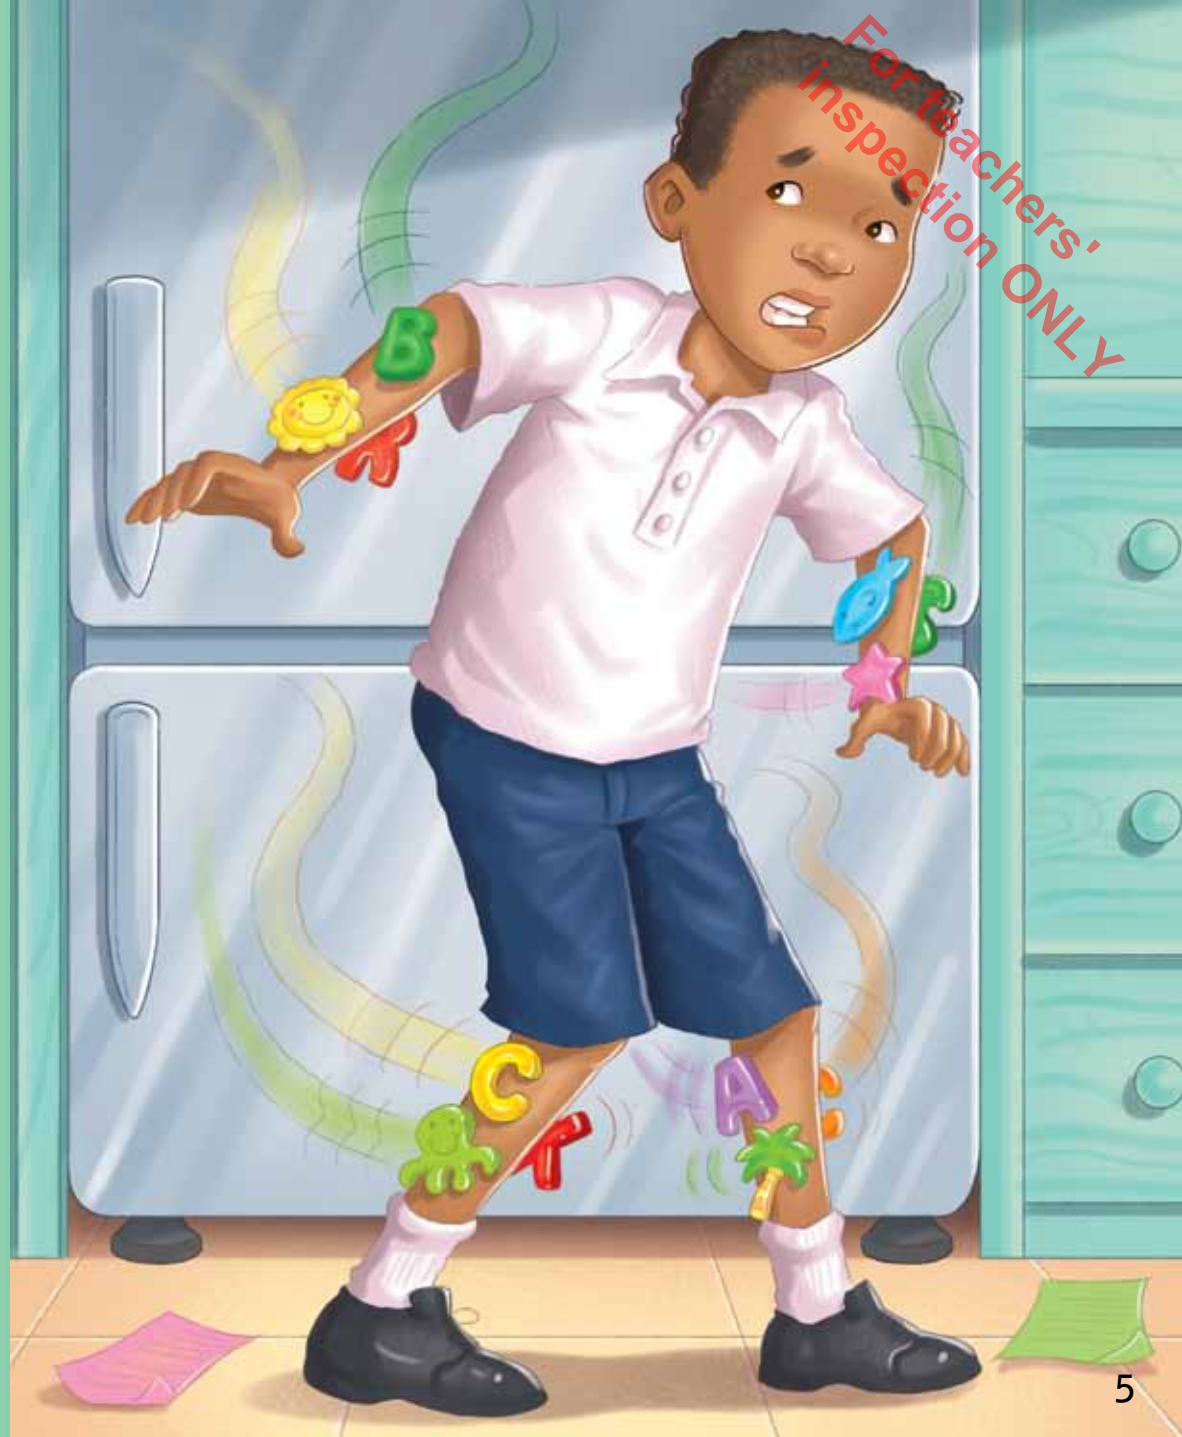

For teachers' use ONLY

One Monday, Joshua walks past the fridge.
There are fridge magnets
on the fridge door.
The magnets fly off the fridge.

"Oh, no!" says Joshua.

The fridge magnets
stick to his arms and legs.

For teachers' inspection ONLY

The next day, Joshua sits at his desk.
He draws a picture.
He draws a house.
By the house is a tree.
Then, Joshua gets a pencil
from his pencil case.

"Oh, no!" says Joshua.

Metal paper clips
stick to his fingers and thumb.

For teachers' inspection ONLY

