
I AM
HUA MULAN
BY QIN WENJUN
ILLUSTRATED BY YU RONG
REYCRAFT BOOKS

In my dream I am dressed as a warrior.
I have long eyelashes.
My hair ribbons flutter in the breeze.
When I draw my dream, I see her...

I see Hua Mulan.

The Hua family lived over 1,500 years ago. Mulan's sister was a new bride. Her brother was a lively little boy. They were a happy family.

For Review Only

But Mulan's father was not in good health.

How could he fight?

Mulan decided she would go in his place.
She tried every which way to persuade him.
Eventually father and daughter agreed to a duel. Whoever won would join the army.

Mulan's skills were stunning.
She was clever.

And ...

she won!

For Review Only

She went to the East Market to choose a fast horse

To the West Market to fit a good saddle

To the South Market to buy

warrior's clothes

And to the North Market to find a sharp spear

When Mulan returned at sunset, she looked every inch a warrior.

For Review Only

On her last day at home, her heart filled with sadness,

Mulan planted peonies
in front of the house.

For Review Only

At last, the war ended.

Victory!

The generals waited in camp to receive their medals.

But Mulan couldn't wait.

For Review Only