Little Frog had a very big mouth!

It was very wide, too. And it was very good at catching bugs.

Every time Little Frog opened her big,
wide mouth she caught a tasty bug.

"YUM!"

Little Frog also had a best friend.
Her name was Little Bird.

Little Frog and Little Bird were very different.

Little Frog

LEAP– LEAP– LEAPED

across the ground,

while Little Bird

FLAP– FLAP– FLAPPED

across the sky.

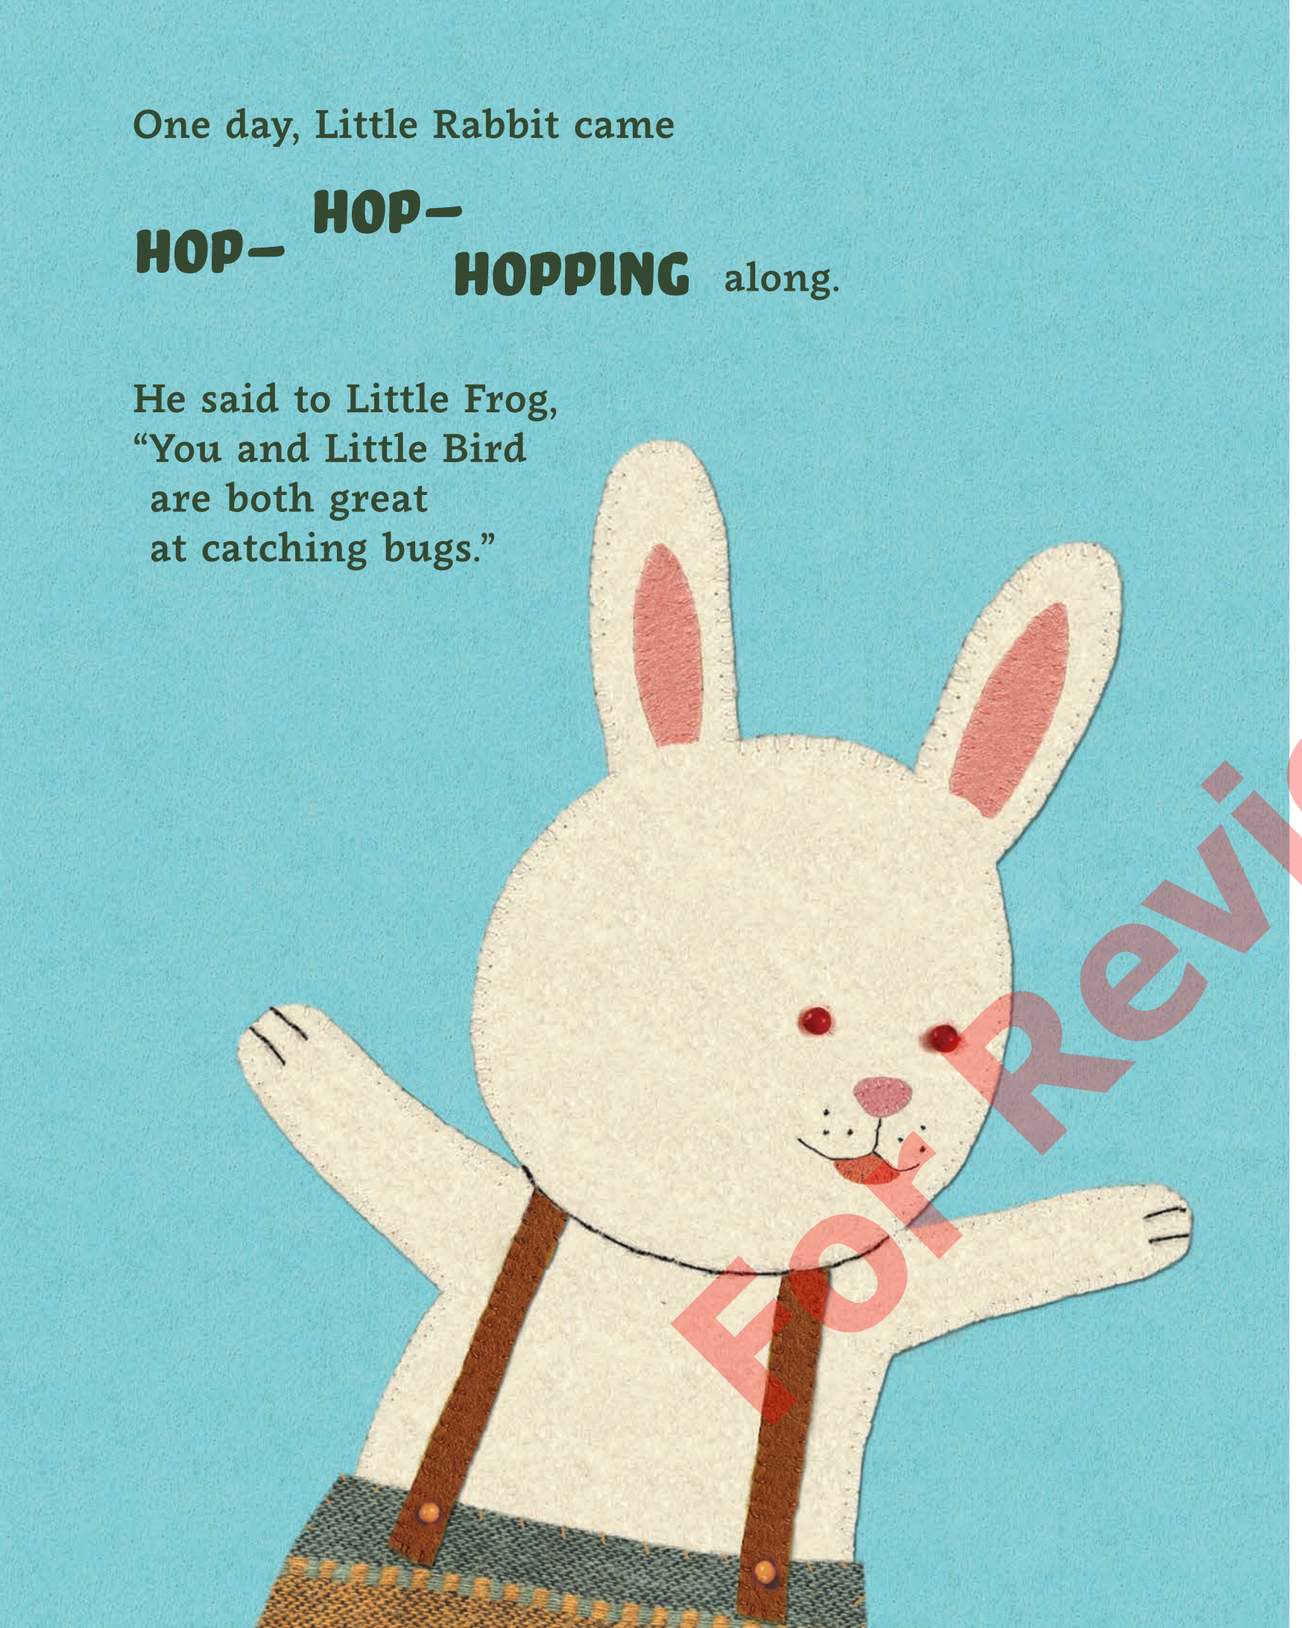

But they were both great at catching bugs.

One day, Little Rabbit came

HOP– HOP– HOP– HOPPING along.

He said to Little Frog,
"You and Little Bird
are both great
at catching bugs."

"I know," said Little Frog.

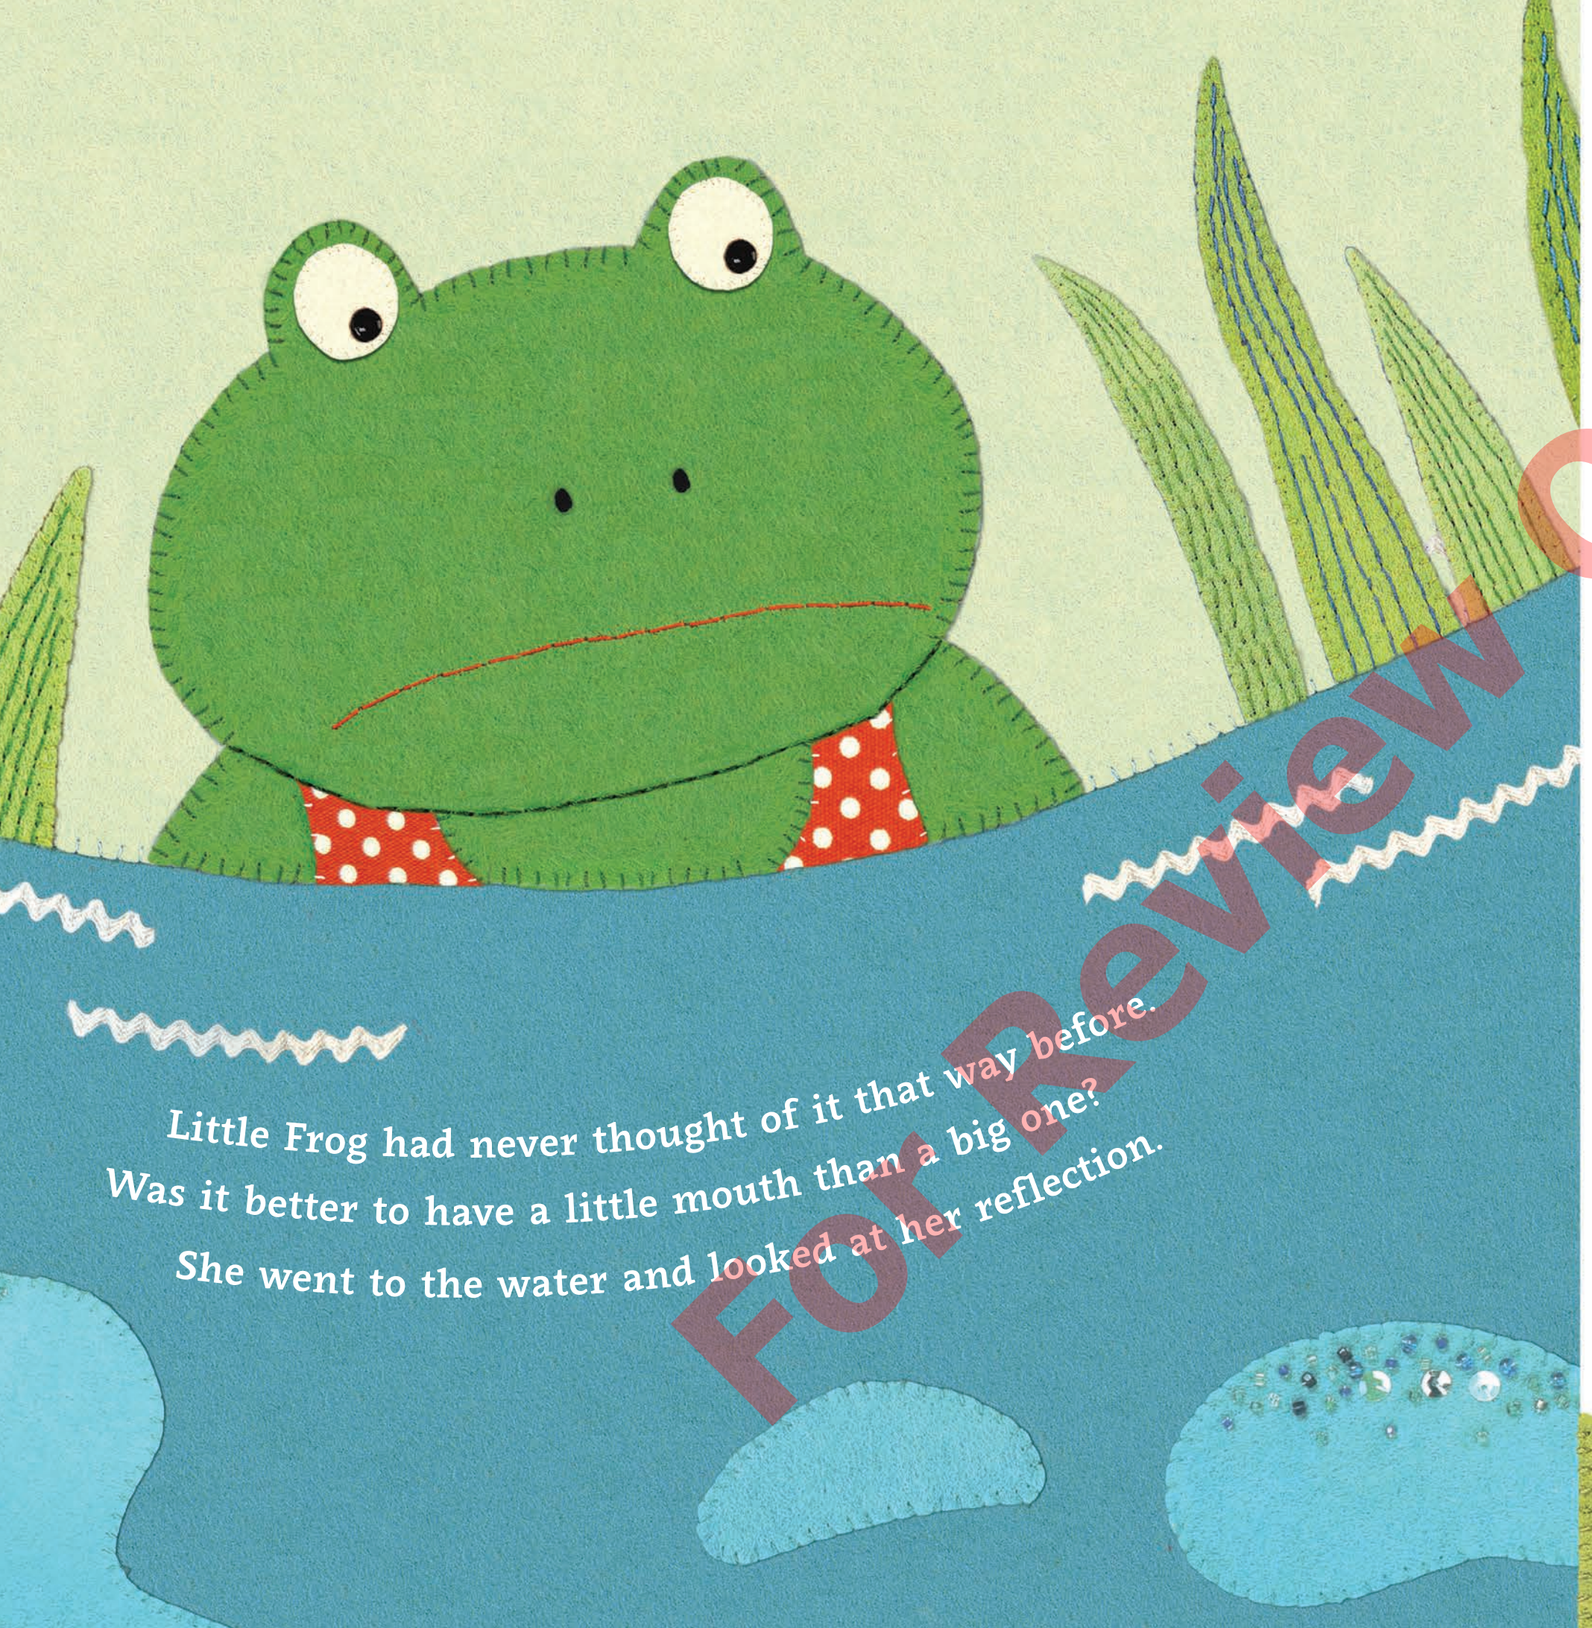

"But Little Bird has
a tiny little beak.
And you have a big, wide mouth."

"EWW!"

Little Frog had never thought of it that way before.
Was it better to have a little mouth than a big one?
She went to the water and looked at her reflection.

"My mouth IS too big!" she cried.

In fact,

IT WAS HUGE!
IT WAS GIGANTIC!
IT WAS ENORMOUS!

She had never been so unhappy.
