Woodpecker Girl

written by Chingyen Liu
and I-Tsun Chiang
Illustrated by Heidi Doll

For Review Only

I am a woodpecker who loves to draw.

For Review Only

But I can't hop on branches or fly freely in the sky like a real woodpecker.

For Review Only

My brain lacked oxygen when I was born.

From that moment on, my body and my brain have worked against each other.

When I want to greet someone, my neck swerves back.

When I want to talk, I can only make "ee-ee-ah-ah" sounds.

When I want to smile, my face looks angry.

For Review Only