Savta arrived on Friday,
just in time for the Shabbat meal.

Everyone gathered around
to see her photo album.
And to hear her stories.

There were so many stories
and so many people.
I couldn't get close.

"Don't worry, khamoodi," Savta said from across the room.
"It's just the two of us on Sunday."

Sunday with Savta.
What could be better?

We started by hopping on the ferry to the Statue of Liberty. "Your Great Aunt Neshka came here years ago," said Savta. "But I wanted to go to Israel to live. That's where your mother was born. Come."

Savta pointed to a little museum near the river.

"I have a special gift for you."
