The Not-A-Troll

By Kate Poels

Illustrated by Marina Pérez Luque

Henry lived in a house with a big garden.

At the end of the garden was a little stream.

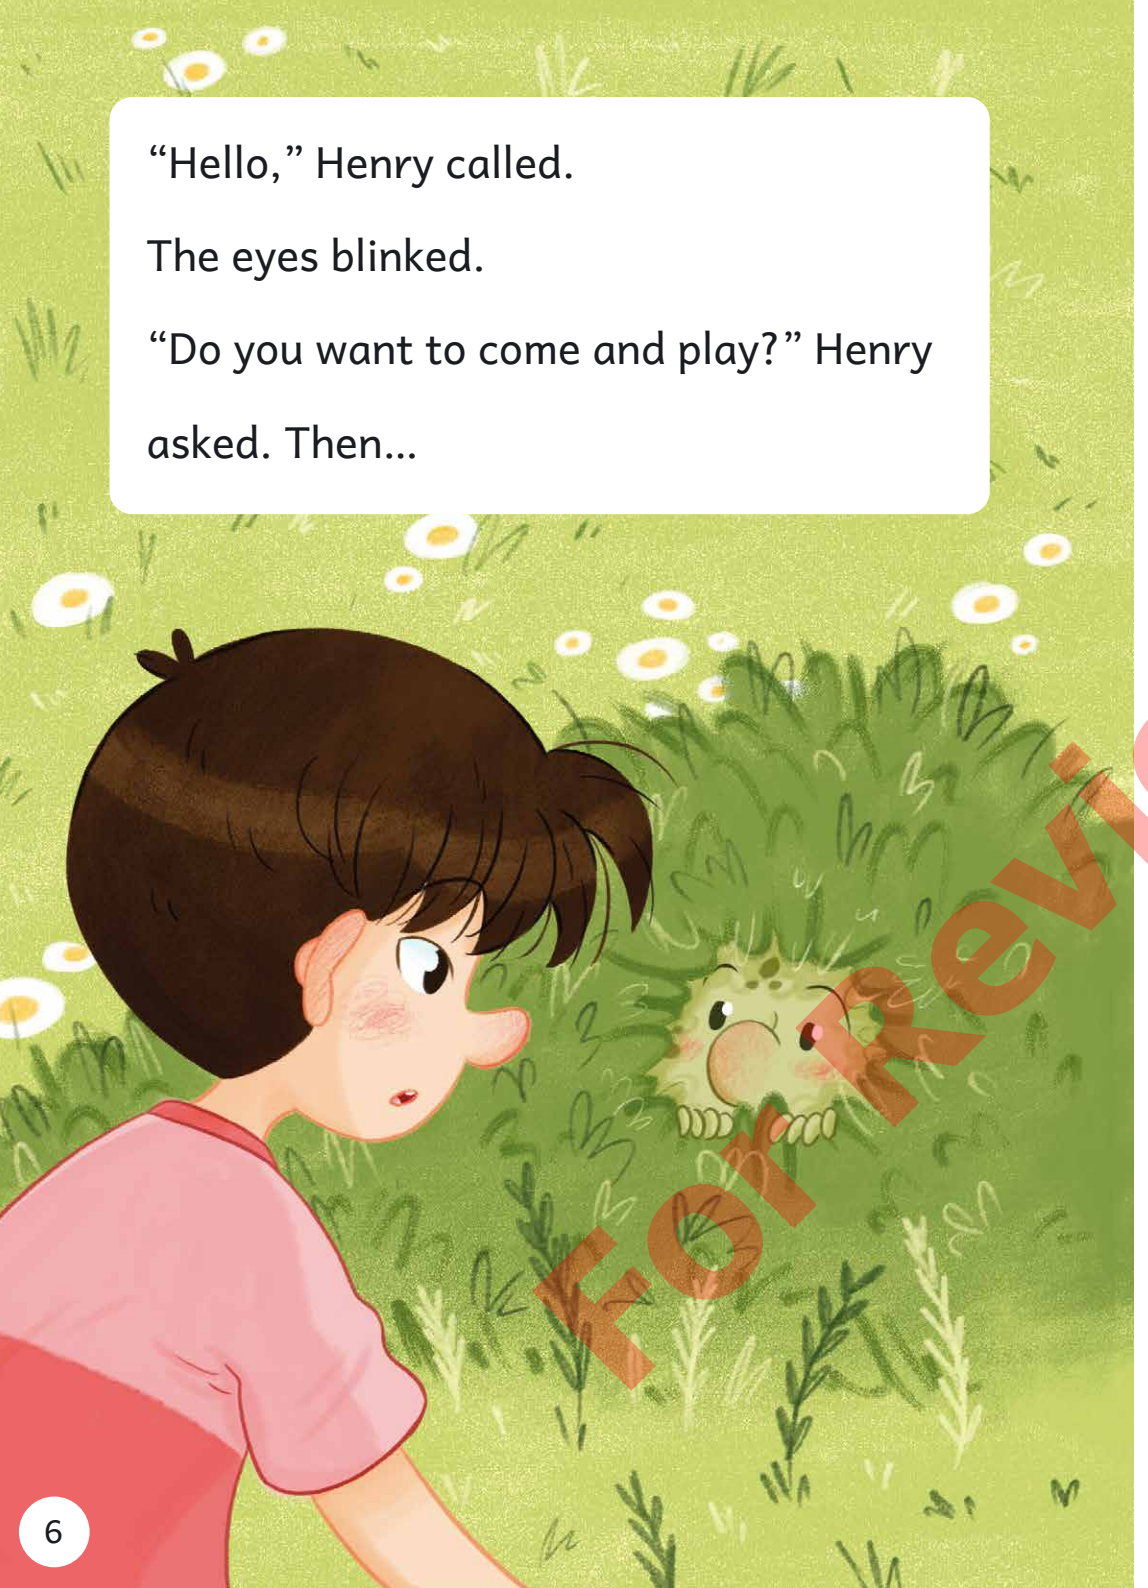

One hot day, Henry went down to the little stream to cool off his toes. He was splashing his feet in the water when he saw two eyes peeping out of the weeds.

“Hello,” Henry called.

The eyes blinked.

“Do you want to come and play?” Henry asked. Then...

...out came a troll.

Henry could tell it was a troll because he had seen lots of trolls in books.

He was worried because he knew trolls were not fun to play with.

"Wow," said Henry. "I've never met a troll before."

The troll looked surprised.

"I'm not a troll, I'm a not-a-troll," he said.

"Oh!" said Henry. He wondered what a not-a-troll was, but he thought it was rude to ask.

"I'm Henry," he said. "What's your name?"

"I'm Bobbo."
