Beaky's SOS

By Rebecca Lisle

Illustrated by Bi Aguiart

Beaky the woodpecker and his family lived in Fiddle Forest. They tapped and pecked the trees with their long beaks.

Tap, tap, tappy, tap! They found insects and creepy crawlies in the bark to eat.

Tap, tippy, tippy, tap! Mum was making their nest hole in the tree bigger.

Suddenly, a great wind blew. Tap, tap, tap!
Dad tapped out a warning on the tree.

The leaves swished and the branches swayed.
The woodpecker family flew back to the nest,
but Beaky was chasing a butterfly.

Suddenly, the wind blew more strongly.
WHOOSH! The wind blew Beaky right out of the forest. He tumbled, rolled, twisted, and turned as the wind carried him away.
It blew him over the huge sea and far away over trees and mountains.

At last, the wind dropped and Beaky landed in the mountains. Everywhere was grey and rocky.

Beaky tapped the rocks. Plonk, plonk, bink, bonk! That didn't sound right at all.
