Early Reader

The Fairly Scary Fairy

Kip the fairy is worried. She hasn't earned her own fairy name yet. Can she find something she is good at to earn her fairy name?

Book Band Gold

Maverick Early Readers

ISBN 978-1-84886-962-2

RRP £6.99

maverickbooks.co.uk

The Fairly Scary Fairy

Kate Poels

Maverick

'The Fairly Scary Fairy'
An original concept by Kate Poels
© Kate Poels 2023

Illustrated by Tom Heard

Published by MAVERICK ARTS PUBLISHING LTD
Studio 11, City Business Centre, 6 Brighton Road,
Horsham, West Sussex, RH13 5BB
© Maverick Arts Publishing Limited May 2023
+44 (0)1403 256941

A CIP catalogue record for this book is available at the British Library.

ISBN 978-1-84886-962-2

Maverick publishing

www.maverickbooks.co.uk

Gold

This book is rated as: Gold Band (Guided Reading)

For Review ONLY

The Fairly Scary Fairy

By Kate Poels

Illustrated by Tom Heard

Chapter 1

Kip the fairy was cross.

Tomorrow was Name Day at school, and she still hadn't earned her very own fairy name.

Miss Wing, her teacher, had given out all the temporary name badges in class.

Pod was now called the Good Fairy.
Mags was the Wise Fairy, Gert was the Funny Fairy and even Trix had been given a badge that named her as the Cheeky Fairy.

But there had been no badge for Kip and time was running out.

"You have to earn a fairy name," said Kip's friend, Blink. "Think of something you are really good at."

For Review Only

“The trouble is,” Kip said, “every time I think of a cool new name that could be mine, I can’t earn it.”

“What have you tried?” Blink asked her.

“Water Fairy,” said Kip. “But I can’t swim.”

“Yes, I can see how that would be a problem,” said Blink.

“I’ve tried Love Fairy, but everyone got cross with me when I tried to make them fall in love. I even tried Sad Fairy but my friends kept finding ways of cheering me up.”

Kip and Blink sat side by side on spotted toadstools in the school field.

By the time the bell rang to tell all the fairies it was time to go home, they still hadn’t thought of a good name for Kip.

For Review Only

Chapter 2

Kip stomped up the road in a very bad mood. She didn't see the huge muddy puddle until it was too late. Her legs went up and her bottom went down with a SPLAT! Kip was covered in sticky mud and this made her crosser than ever.

"Oh dear," said a passing elf.

"Grrrr," growled Kip. She was so cross that the growl came out loud and strong.

The poor elf was very scared and ran away quickly.

For Preview Only