John D. Smith

I am Harper, and he is
Oliver. This is Stripe.
Anybody hungry?

THINK

What could be the reason for the smoke next door?

Stripe is outside sniffing the air.
“Hey, something smells great!” he says.
Smoke is coming from next door.
“I’m hungry!” Stripe licks his lips and starts jumping up and down.

“Stripe, why are you so excited?” asks Oliver.

“I smell sausages!” Stripe chuffs.

“Look! They’re having a barbecue. I see a lot of food on the picnic table,” says Oliver.

“I see some drinks,” says Harper.

POINT & SPEAK

What food do you see on the table?
How about on the barbecue?

“Let’s have a barbecue, too!”

suggests Oliver.

“What a great idea! I want to eat hamburgers, chicken legs, and hot dogs,” says Stripe.

“I want some corn and kebabs,” says Harper.

“I want some drinks – cola, lemon soda, and juice,” says Oliver.

THINK

Do you like barbecues? What’s your favorite barbecue food?

Barbecool!

How do you check the temperature of your barbecue without a thermometer? If you can keep your hand over a barbecue grill for 5 to 7 seconds, the temperature is around $180\sim 230^{\circ}\text{C}$. If you can only manage 2 to 4 seconds, it's more like $240\sim 290^{\circ}\text{C}$.

According to experts, the perfect temperature for chicken is 73°C , and sausages roast just right at 65°C .
