Clare was Abby's best friend.
When she went to Abby's place,
they always played
with Abby's toy horses.

Clare and Abby
would make the horses
go across the table
and jump over little fences.

The horse that Abby liked best was a little blue one with a long white tail.

Abby was always careful when she played with it. She didn't want her best horse to get broken.

But one day, the little blue horse slipped out of Clare's hand and a leg broke off.

Clare looked down
at the little blue horse.
She started to cry.

"Don't cry, Clare," said Abby's mum.
"I can glue the leg on again."

Clare and Abby watched
as Mum tried to fix the horse.

"Soon your horse
will be as good as new,"
said Mum.
