The Triceratops and the Crocodiles

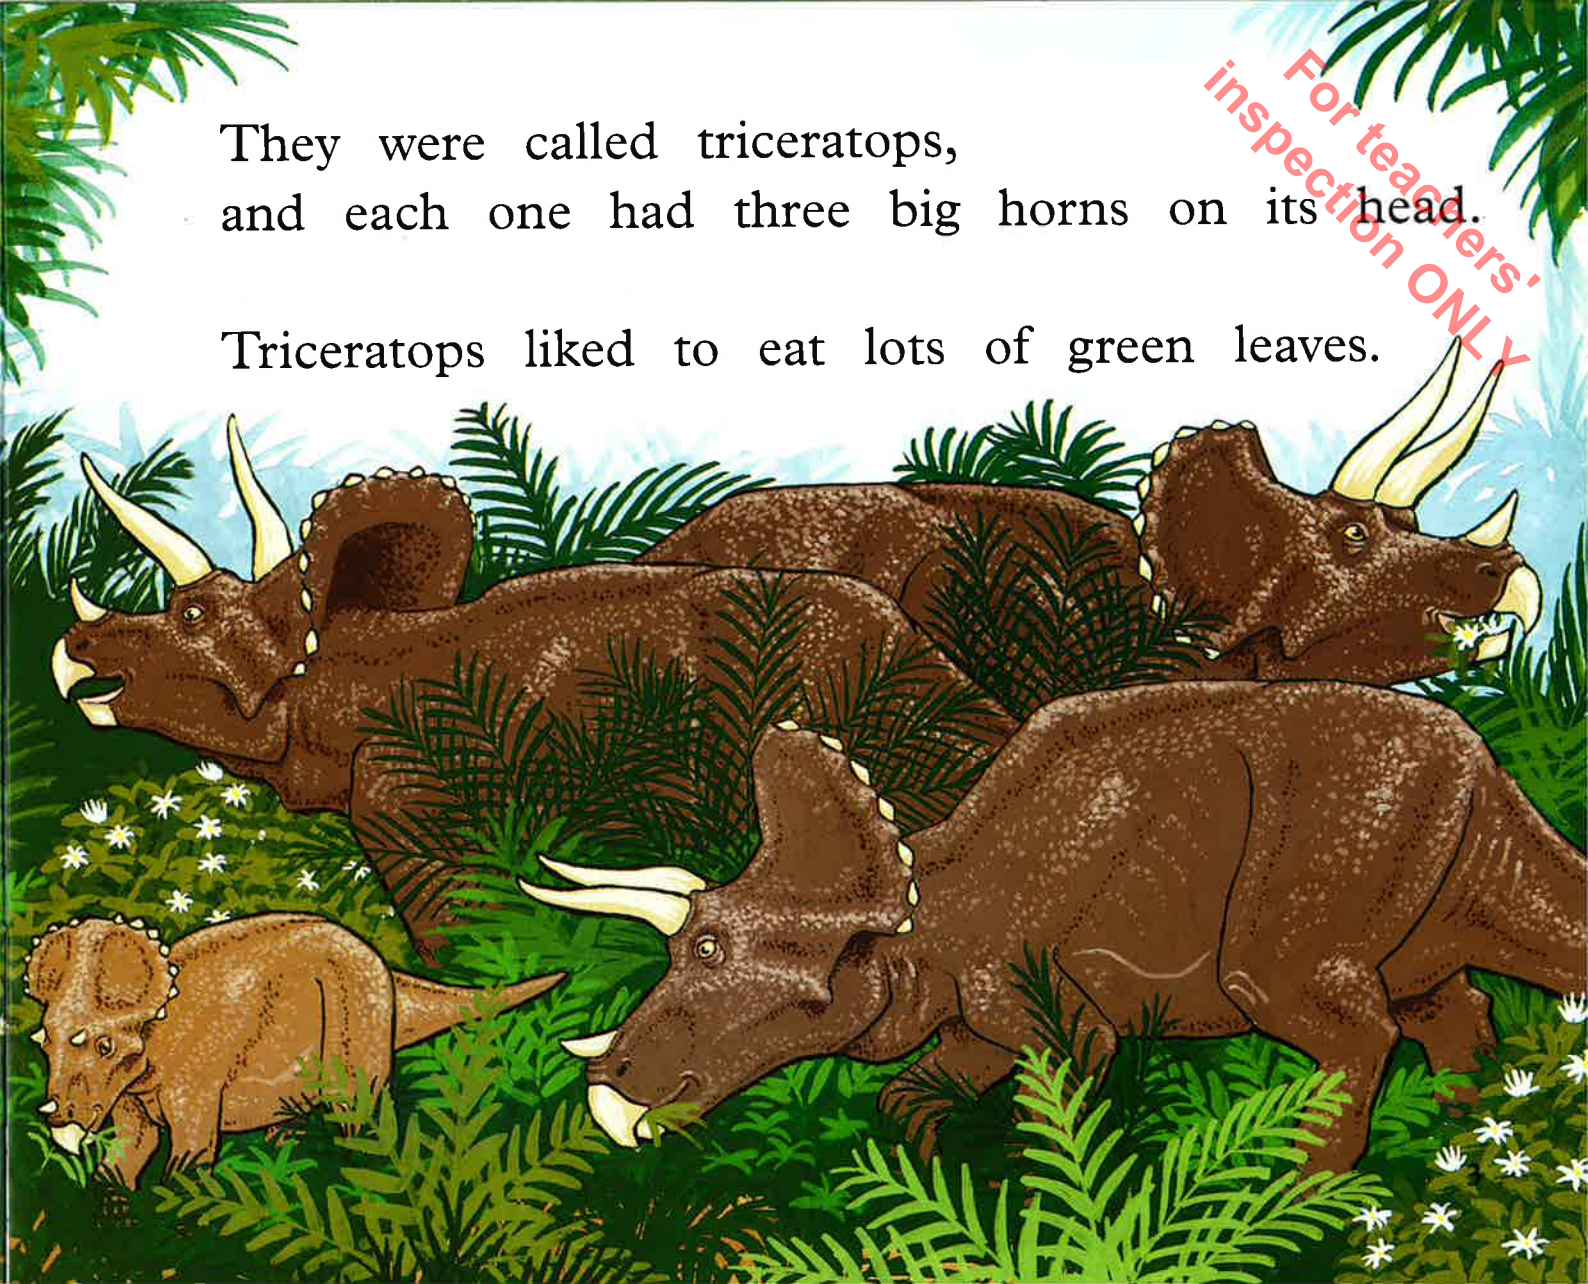

Story by Hugh Price Illustrations by Ben Spiby

For teachers' inspection ONLY

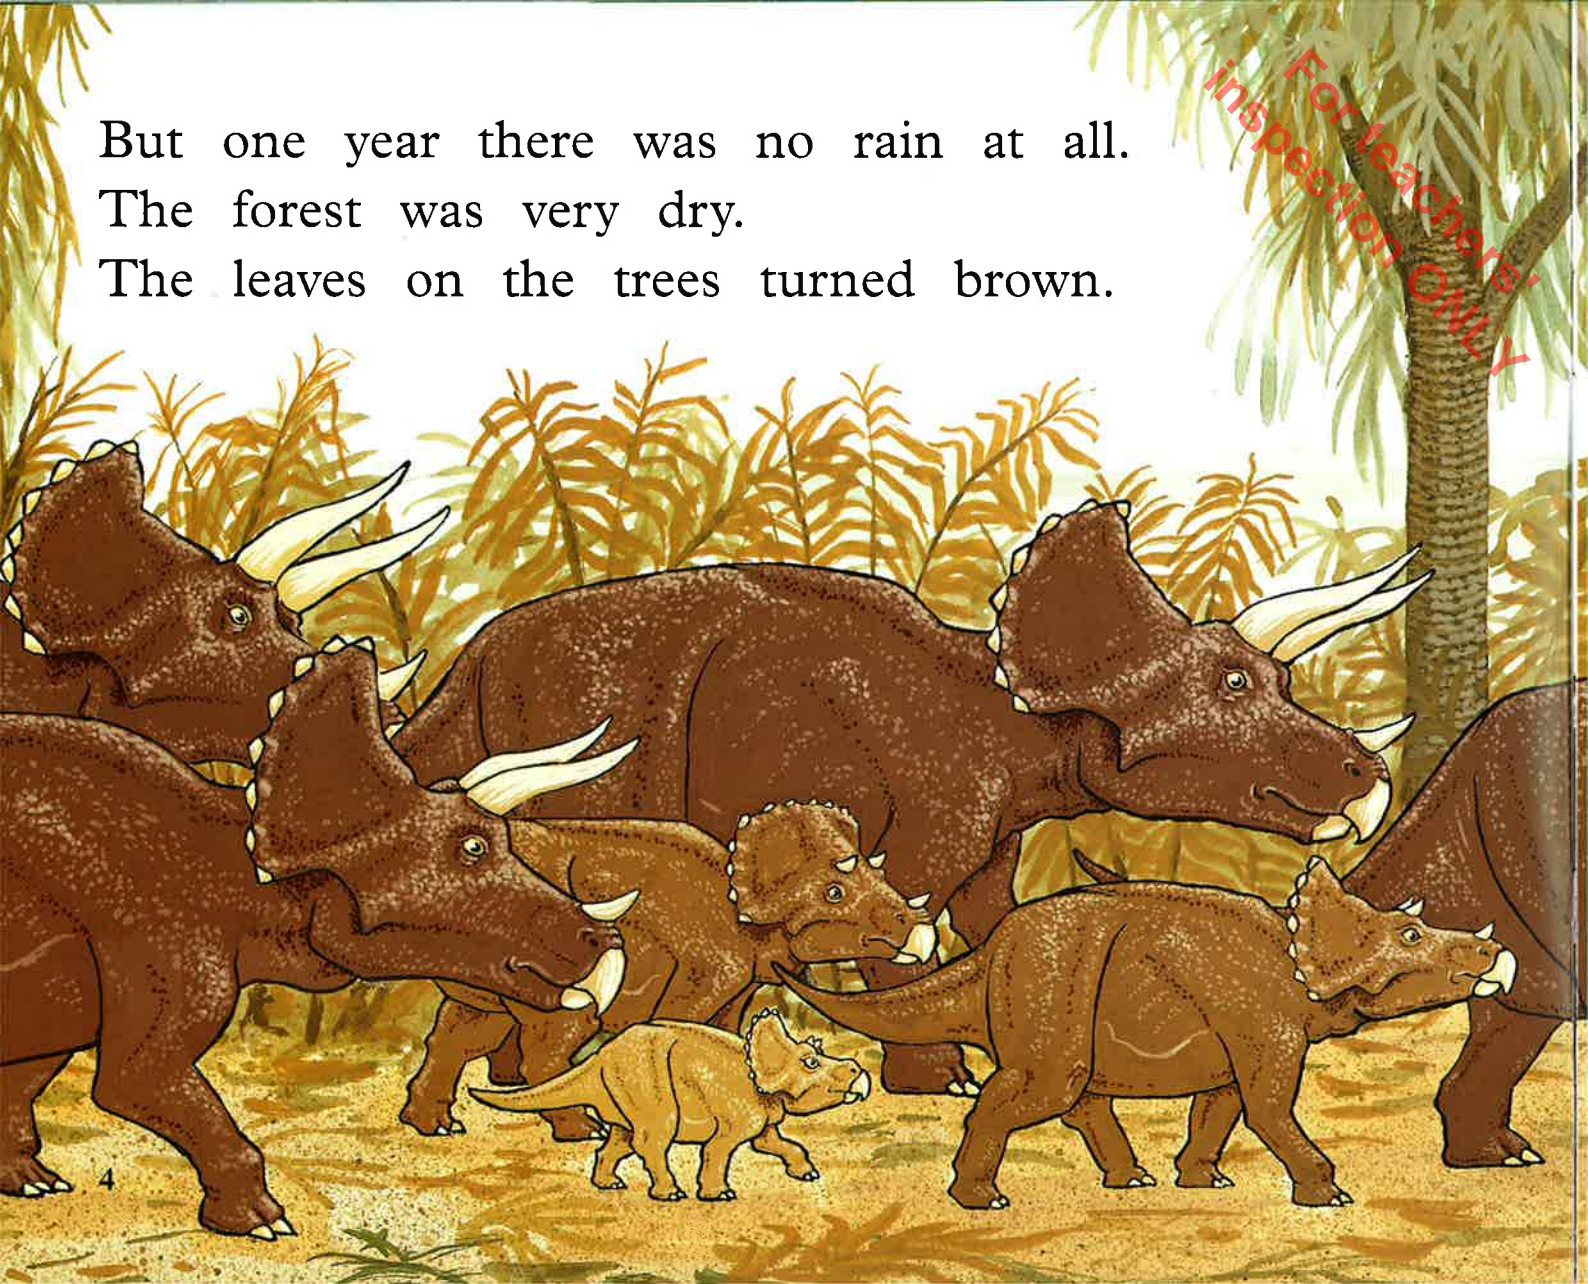

They were called triceratops,
and each one had three big horns on its head.

Triceratops liked to eat lots of green leaves.

But one year there was no rain at all.
The forest was very dry.
The leaves on the trees turned brown.

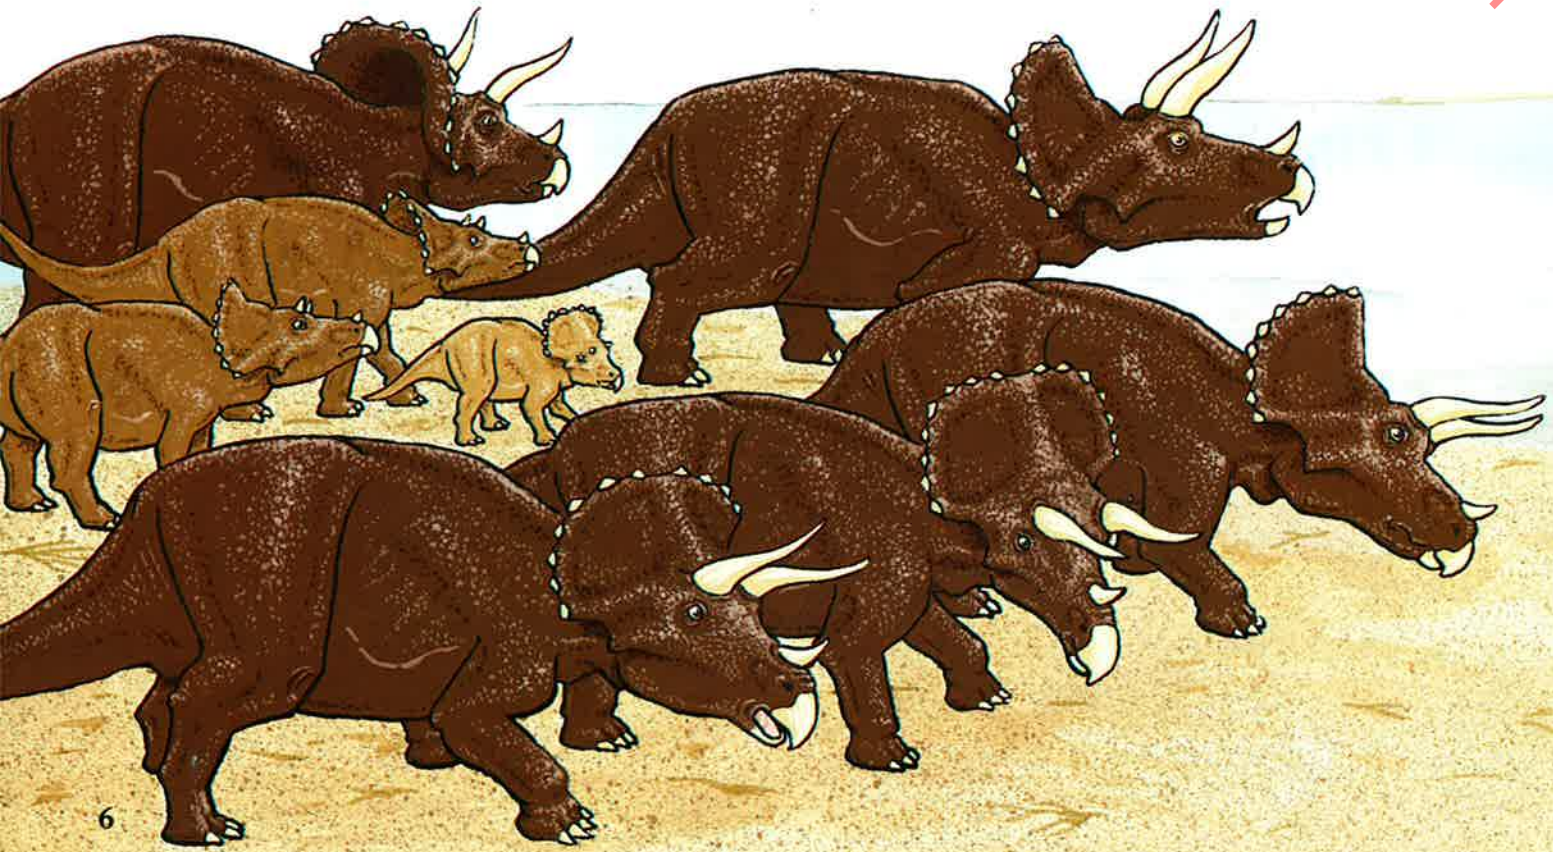

For teachers' inspection ONLY

The triceratops had to go away from the forest to find food. They went to look for a place where there were lots of green leaves.

For teachers' instruction ONLY

The triceratops walked along together.
Their babies were in the middle of the herd.
