The Gingerbread Man

Retold by Annette Smith

Illustrated by Rachel Tonkin

Tale & Play

PM LIBRARY

Once upon a time,
there was a little old man
and a little old woman.

One day,
the little old woman
made a gingerbread man.

She gave him a head,
two arms and two legs.
She gave him two eyes,
a nose
and a mouth.

For Review Only

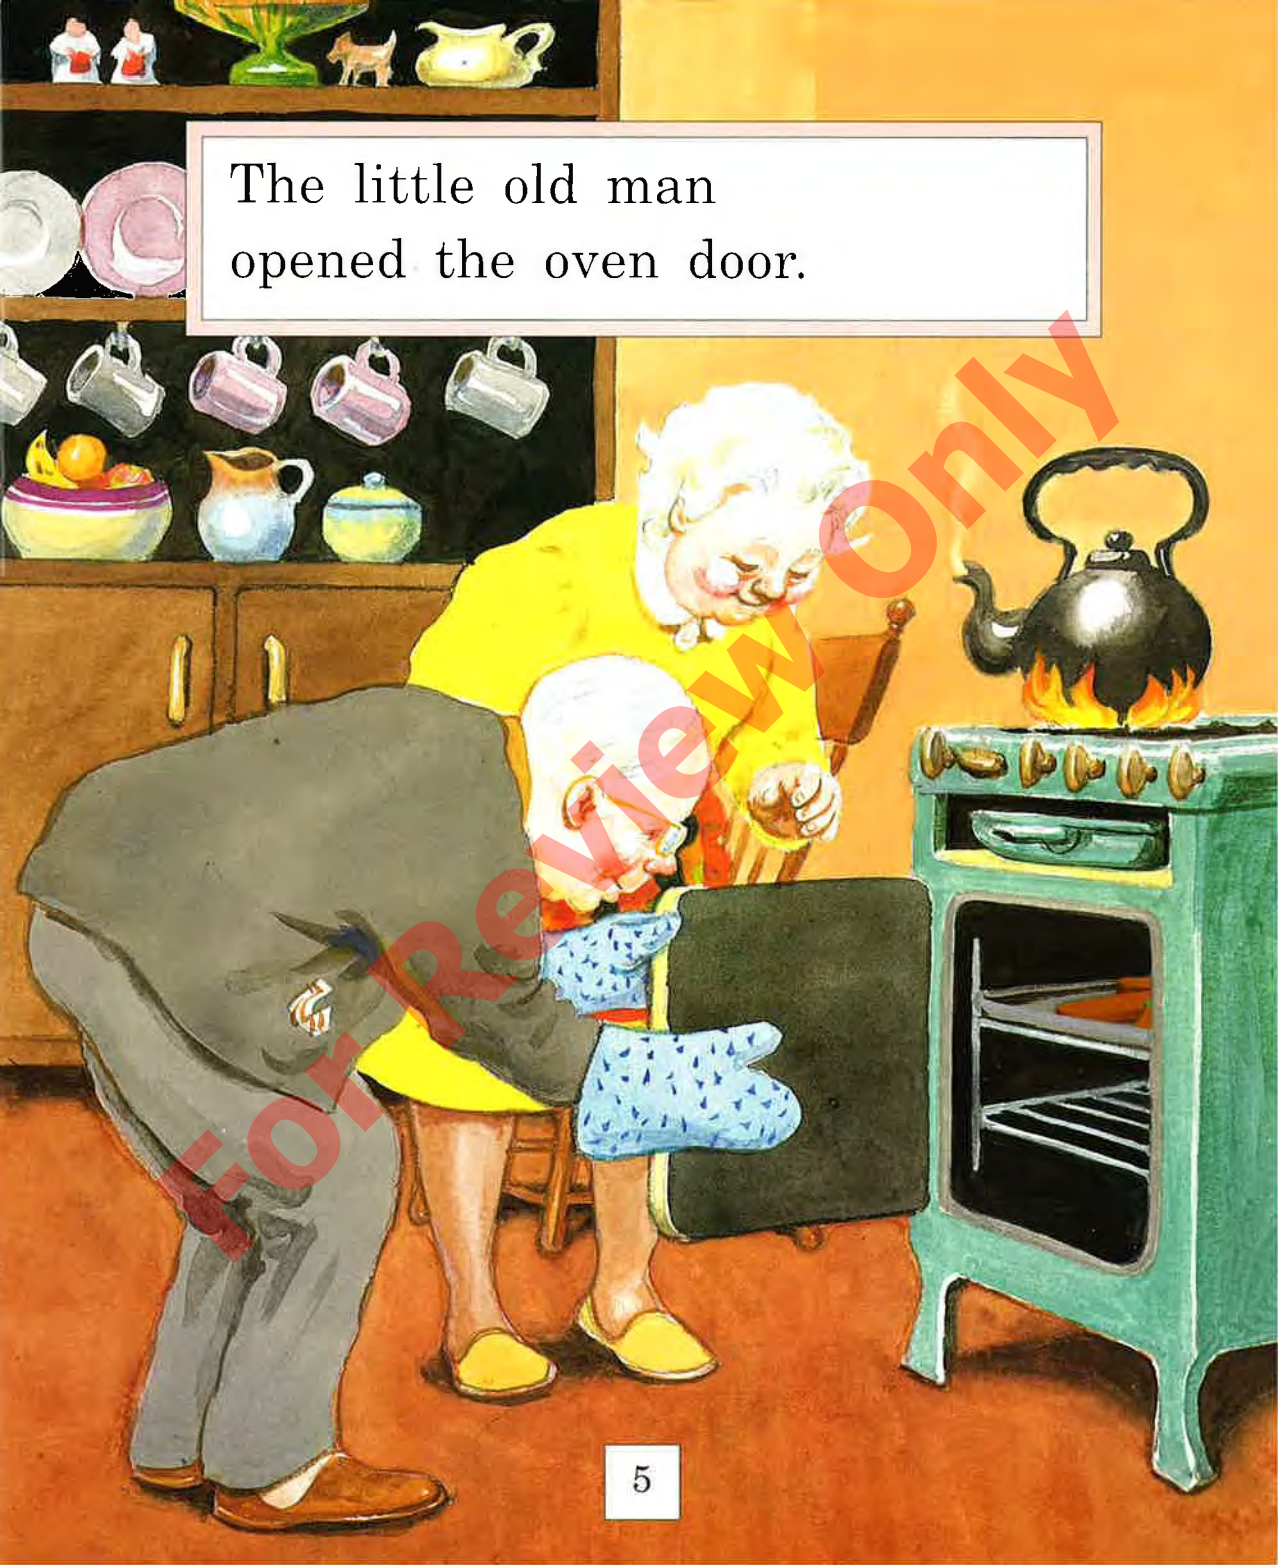

For Review only

The little old woman
put the gingerbread man
into the oven to cook.

Soon the little old man said,
"I can smell gingerbread cooking.
I will see
if the gingerbread man
is ready to eat."

For Review Only

For Review Only

A play

The Gingerbread Man

People in the play

Reader

Little Old Man

Little Old Woman

Gingerbread Man

Cow

Horse

Sly Old Fox

For Review Only

Reader

Once upon a time
there was a little old man
and a little old woman.
They lived all by themselves.

Little old woman

I'm going to make a gingerbread man today.
This is his head.
Here are his arms
and here are his legs.

Little old man

You can give him
two eyes and a nose
and a mouth as well.

For Review Only

Little old woman

Now the gingerbread man
is ready to be cooked.
I will put him in the oven.

Reader

The little old woman
put the gingerbread man
into the oven to cook.

Little old man

Mmm—mmm,
I can smell
the gingerbread cooking.
I will see
if the gingerbread man
is ready to eat.

For Review Only