The Tale of the Turnip

Retold by Jenny Giles

Illustrated by Chantal Stewart

Tale & Play

PM LIBRARY

Once upon a time,
an old man
planted some turnip seeds.

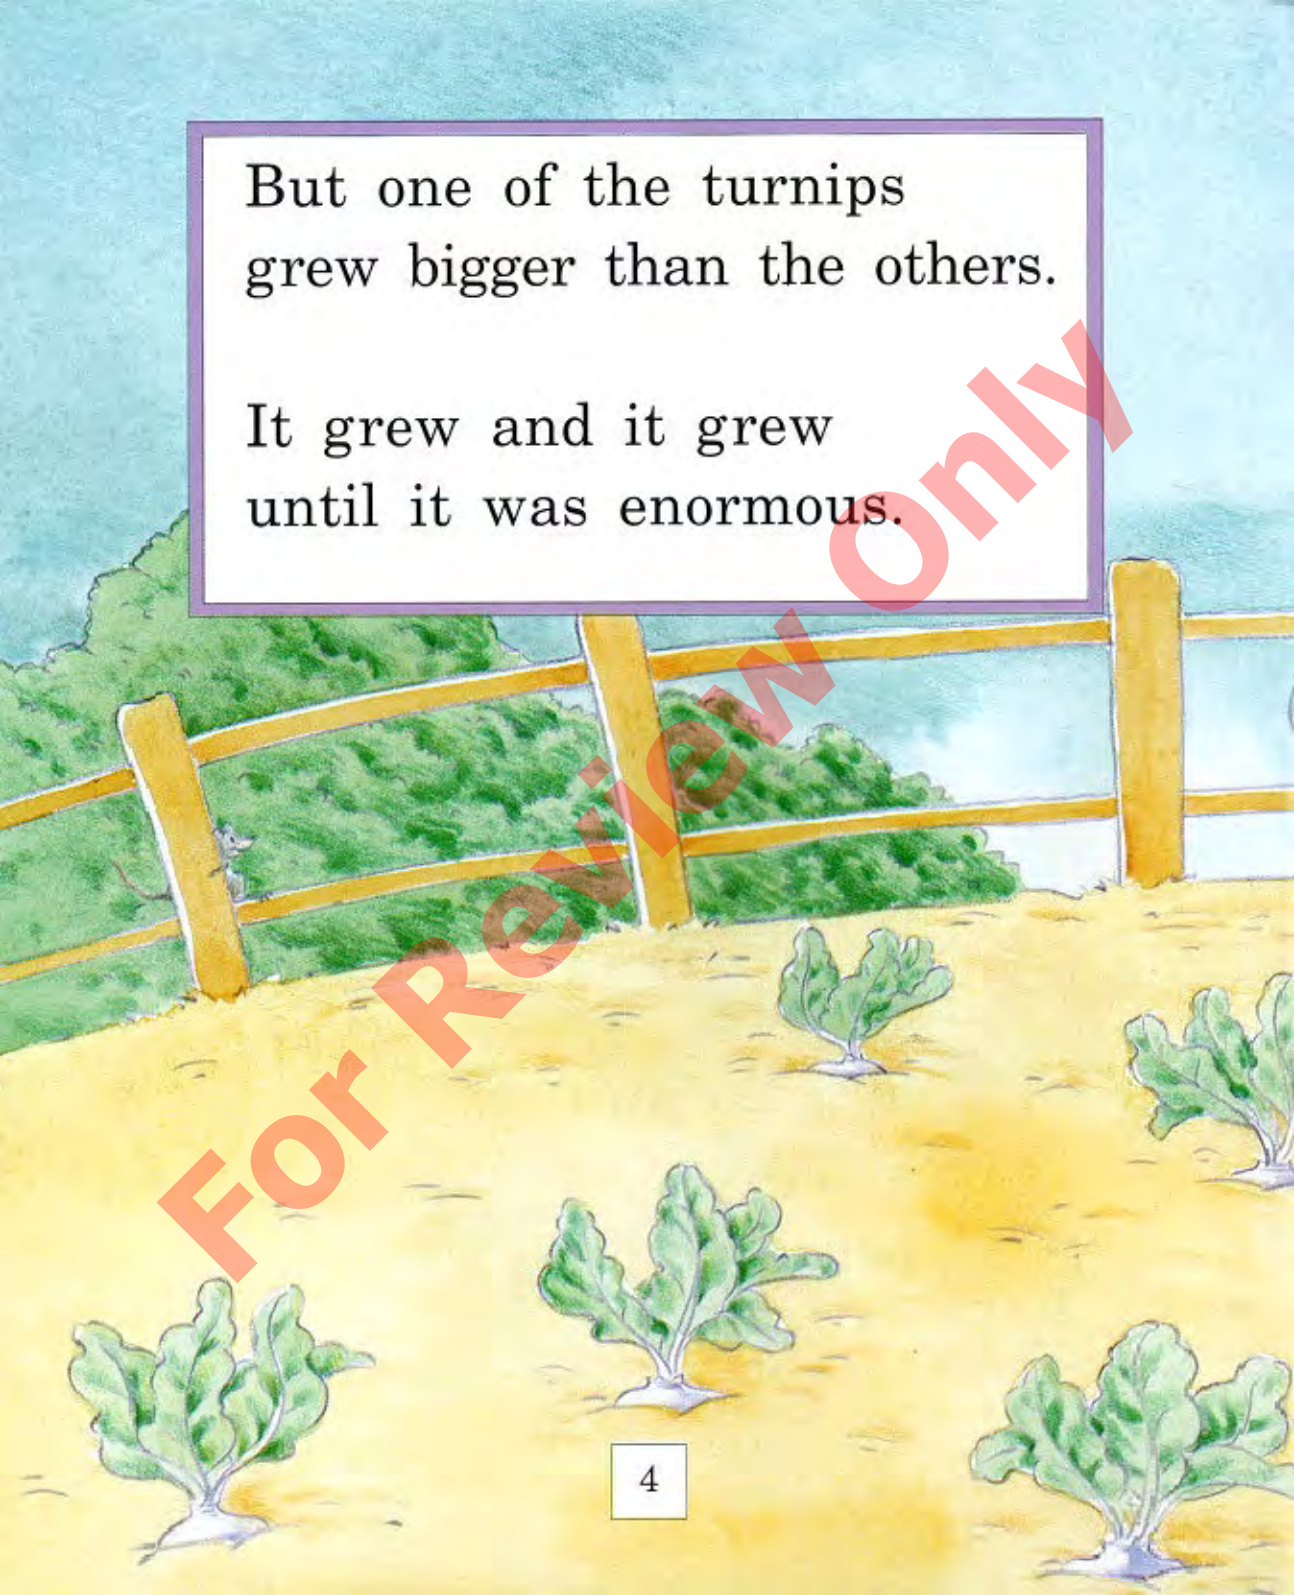

For Review Only

The sun shone,
and the rain fell,
and soon the seeds
began to grow.

For Review Only

For Review Only

For Review Only

A play

The Tale of the Turnip

People in the play

Reader

Old Man

Old Woman

Little Boy

Little Girl

Cat

Mouse

For Review Only

Old man

Wife! Wife!
Please come and help me
pull up the enormous turnip.

Old woman

I will hold on to you.

Old man

And I will hold on to the turnip.

Reader

They pulled and they pulled,
And they both gave a shout,
But they still couldn't make
The big turnip come out.

So the old woman
called to the little boy.

For Review Only

Old woman

Little boy! Little boy!
Please come and help us
pull up the enormous turnip.

Little boy

I will hold on to you.

Old woman

I will hold on to the old man.

Old man

And I will hold on to the turnip.

For Review Only