Stone Soup

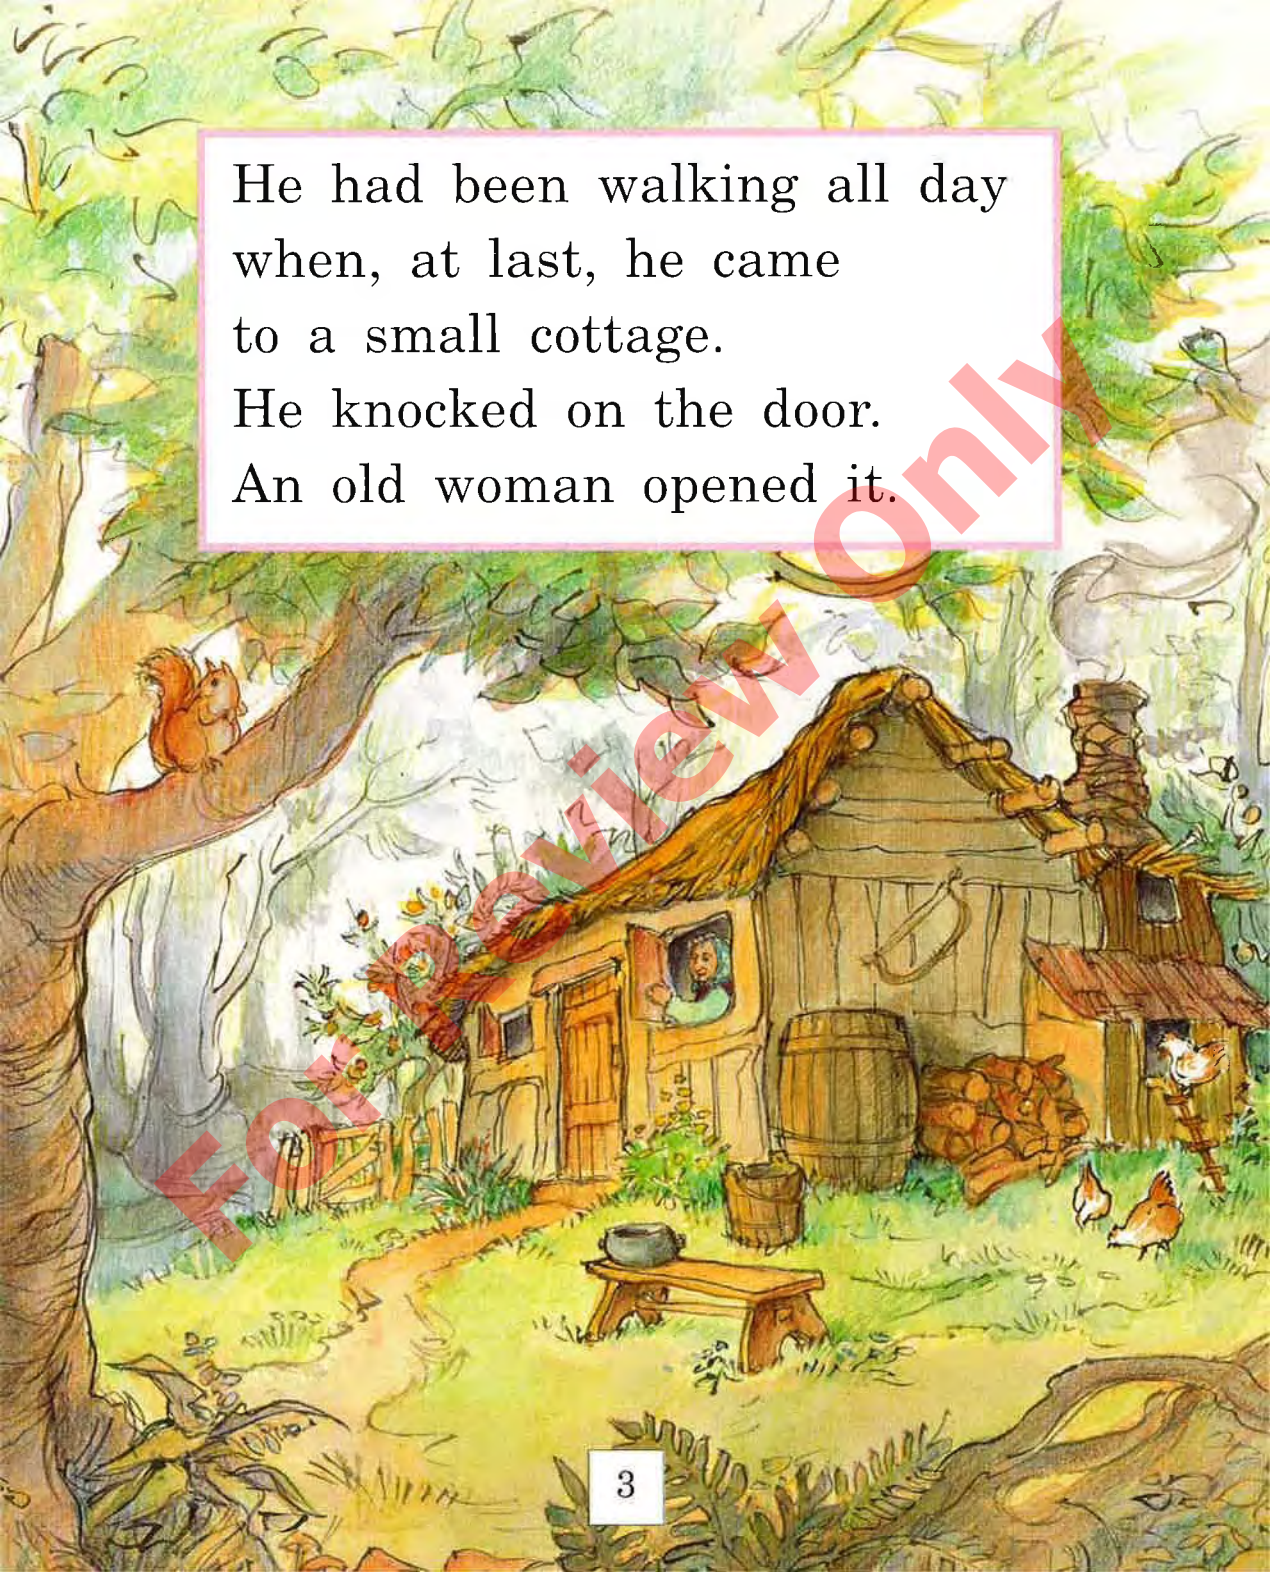

Retold by Annette Smith
Illustrated by Naomi C Lewis

Tale & Play

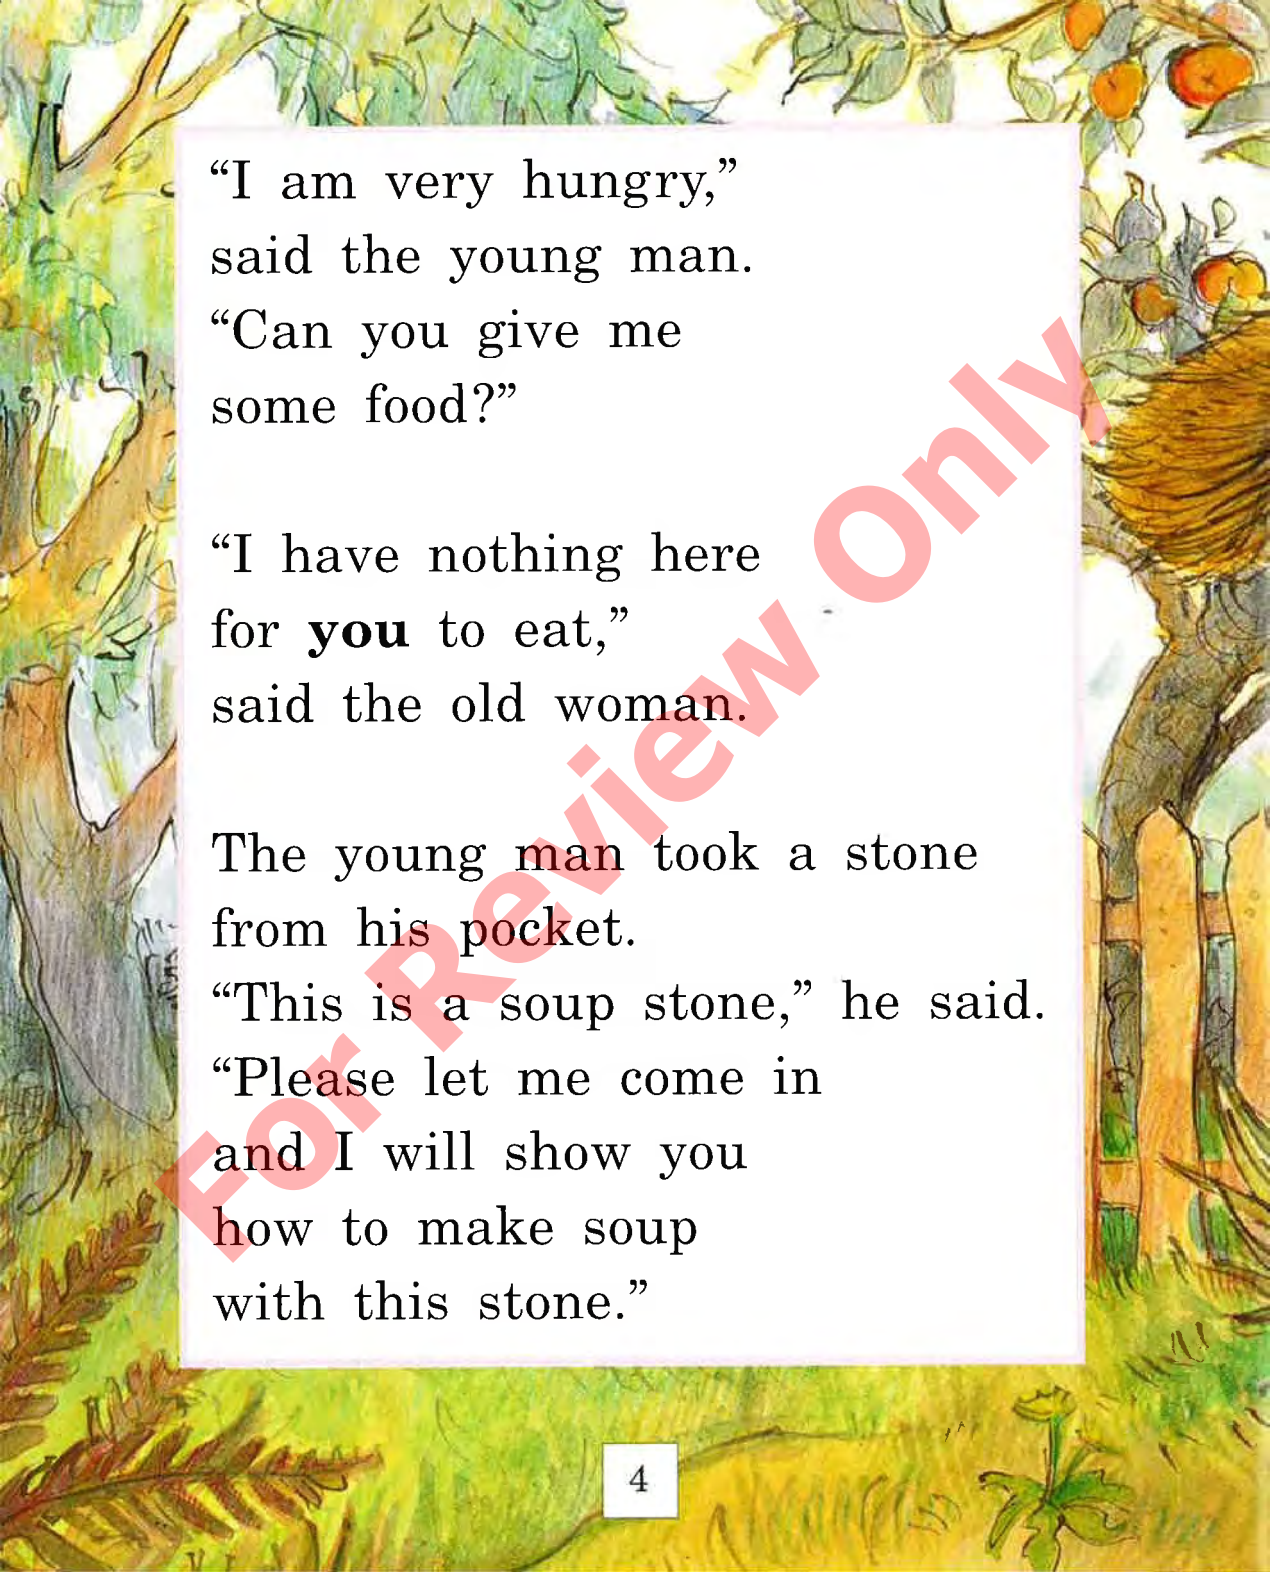

PM LIBRARY

Once upon a time,
there was a young man
who was very poor.
He had no money
to buy food,
and he was very hungry.
For Review Only

He had been walking all day
when, at last, he came to a small cottage.
He knocked on the door.
An old woman opened it.

For preview only

"I am very hungry,"
said the young man.
"Can you give me
some food?"

"I have nothing here
for you to eat,"
said the old woman.

The young man took a stone
from his pocket.
"This is a soup stone," he said.
"Please let me come in
and I will show you
how to make soup
with this stone."

For Review Only

FOR ROYALTY

A play

Stone Soup

For Review Only

People in the play

Reader

Young man

Old woman

Reader

Once upon a time,
there was a young man
who was very poor.
He had been walking all day
when, at last, he came to a small cottage.

Young man

I am very hungry.
Maybe I can get something to eat here.

Reader

The young man knocked on the door.
An old woman opened it.

For Review Only

Old woman

What do you want?

Young man

I have been walking all day and I am very hungry.
Can you give me some food?

Old woman

I have nothing here
for you to eat.

Young man

Look! I have a soup stone.
Please let me come in
and I will show you how to make soup with this stone.

For Review Only