Mum, Dad and Jonathan were shopping at the market.

"I'll get some oranges for Grandad," said Mum.
"He isn't feeling very well.
He has had a bad cold."

"I could buy him something to cheer him up," said Jonathan. "I have got my pocket money here with me."

When Mum had bought the oranges and some vegetables, they had a look around the other stalls.

Jonathan bought a big red toffee apple.

"Mm-mm," he said.
"It smells good.
I'll just give it a little lick."

Jonathan gave the toffee apple a lick, and then he took a bite out of it.

"I can't give it to Grandad now,"
he said.
"I'll have to eat it."
