
The Roller Blade Run
Story by Jenny Giles Illustrations by Rachel Tonkin
PM LIBRARY
PM

Luke put his new roller blades on and skated down the path.

His friend Andrew called out to him from next door.
"Hey, Luke!
I've made a good roller blade run!
Come and see it."

For Review Only

For Review Only

Luke went into Andrew's place.

"Look over here," said Andrew.
"I can skate up one board,
and down the other!"

"Can I have a try?" asked Luke.

"Just follow me!" said Andrew.

For Review Only

The boys skated along the driveway towards the boards. Up they went, and down the other side.

"That was great!" said Luke. "Let's do it again."

"Let's skate around the house first," said Andrew. "Come on."

For Review Only

The boys skated along Andrew's path and then up over the boards again.

"I know how we could make a better roller blade run," said Luke.
"If we put that other board
across the grass,
we could get onto my driveway
and skate around my house, too."

As they skated down Luke's path,
Andrew called, "Keep going!
We can go past your shed
and back into my place."

"Yes!" shouted Luke. "Come on!"

For Review Only

For Review Only